LANDIS ON JOB

Charge $500 Offered Philadelphian to Throw League Game.

By LARRY SMITS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—The ugly figure of baseball scandal, swiftly raising its snaky head and as quickly scotched, today left New York fans its bitter aftermath, just as it left the National league champions without two members of their staff on the eve of the world series.

In addition to the stigma cast when Judge Kenesaw M. Landis, commissioner of baseball, declared two Giants ineligible and banished them from baseball, the blow delivered late last night as the Giants prepared to entrain for Washington, meant possible further shifting of John McGraw's crippled lineup.

Jimmy O'Connell, $75,000 outfielder, who, with Cozy Dolan, veteran infielder, was found guilty of trying to bribe Heinie Sand, Philadelphia shortstop, into throwing a game, was a possible choice for center field.

Heinie Sand Spurns Offer.

Judge Landis departed for Washington almost immediately after announcing his ruling, based on the confession he said O'Connell made to him that O'Connell offered Sand $500 to throw the game at Philadelphia last Saturday, on which the National league pennant hung. Sand refused the alleged offer and flatly reported it to Manager Fletcher of the Phillies.

John A. Heydler, president of the National league, and officials of the New York club assisted in the immediate investigation which led to a trial of O'Connell and Dolan in Judge Landis' hotel room last night.

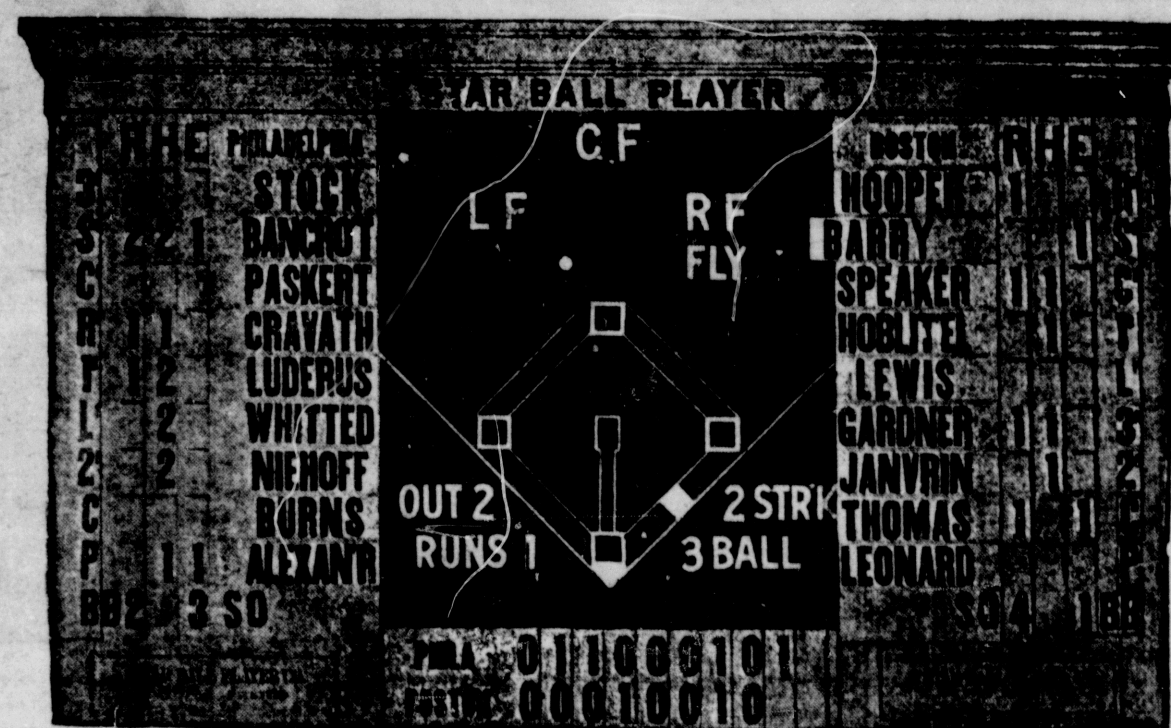

Giants fans today gave as little credence as did Landis to the alleged attempt of O'Connell to implicate in the deal Captain Frank Frisch, Ross Young, outfielder, and George Kelly, first baseman of the Giants. After questioning them, Judge Landis was convinced, he said, that they knew nothing of the bribe. Dolan was unable to convince Landis that he had

Missing New York Boy is Believed to Have Visited Here

Franklin Roshek, 14, son of wealthy New York parents, who has been missing for approximately 10 days, may have passed through East Liverpool via freight train or blind baggage during the last few days enroute to his home in New York city.

The boy's parents and members of the New York police force and Pennsylvania railroad officials are confident that the tired, blond boy seen at Hudson, near Cleveland, last Thursday and at Bayard, last Friday, is the one for whom a countrywide search is being made.

The lad, accompanied by a younger boy, was in Hudson last Thursday when the pair asked O. W. Heck a telegraph operator for permission to sleep in the station. He told them it was against the rules and advised them to go to the police station. They did so but left the next morning. That day they were seen by John Ray, a telegraph operator at Bayard, who also says they asked permission to sleep in the station.

Complete Contract For Marion Star; Secondary Payment

MARION, Oct. 2.—C. D. Schaffner, executor and trustee of the Harding estate, Wednesday notified Probate Judge L. B. McNeal that the Marion Star contract has been completed. Mr. Schaffner recently applied for an extension of time required for the filing of his report, giving as the reason the fact that there were uncollected assets and that the Star contract had not been completed.

Wide publicity was given the request for extension in newspaper trade journals and city newspapers based on the presumption that the new owners of the Star had defaulted in their payments.

The amount of money turned over to the executor today by Louis H. Brush and Roy D. Moore was $110,717, which completed the secondary cash payment of $113,000 provided in the contract of sale negotiated with the late President Harding in Washington, by which Brush and Moore became owners of the Star.

Hoke Donithen has been appointed one of the three appraisers of the Harding estate, filling a vacancy caused by the death of John E. Waddell. The other two appraisers are James F. Prendergast and Josiah Bindley. The work of appraisal will now be taken up.

CAPRICIOUS DAME FASHION OFFERS NEW YORK AND PARIS STYLES IN THREE-DAY FALL DISPLAY HERE

Milady, Dame Fashion demands your attention in East Liverpool's fall display of her latest creations.

The capricious miss, revealed in all her glory, swayed her sceptre as blinds were raised on store windows here Wednesday night, preliminary to the semi-annual style exposition on Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The popular ruler of "What's What in woman's wearing apparel" says to be "smart" one must adhere strictly to the voice of New York and Paris designers and also to the new tones in color as decreed by world famous modistes. The fall wearing apparel, which is being displayed by the local merchants, will charm the fastidious as well as the most frivolous in dress.

Season of Color

Without doubt, it is a season of color, as the visitors to ceramic City stores will learn when they survey the elaborate stocks that greet them. Use of superlatives is necessary to convey the attractiveness of the offerings.

In passing it may be well to notice the most unusual models. The gowns showing the new lipstick shade in a crepe satin, bedecked with the latest fad—Ostrich trimming. This is a Jean Patou gown. The white crepe creation with ostrich trimming combined with crystal beads and rhinestones, is an Alice Bernard model, the Drecoll model is of poude blue crepe Elizabeth, with ostrich trimming and rhinestones, while the white crepe de jour, beaded in oriental colorings, is a

Miller Soeurs' costume. Wraps displayed include Cossack green, fawnskin cloth, with mole fur, a model by Moleynex; penny shades fawnskin cloth and Kolinsky fur, model by Renee, and Kashmir Kermans model with wolf fur by Chanel. Paris imports by "Pout-main," are silk crepe georgette, silk marocain with marabou trimming, in shades of banana, tulip, fire, orchid, jade and white.

Evening Gowns and Millinery The attractive setting for window displays are in a color scheme of orchid and burnt orange, with velvet rose flowers in which the new feature ostrich is combined, draped brilliant satins and soft colored lights. Hosiery and underwear in vivid shades such as fuchsia and crushed strawberry are very good.

Displays are made of the new evening gown material, warp prints. Trimmings of ostrich, lace, and metal ornaments are shown with this combination. Wool dress material, with trimming of fur is displayed. The latest models in umbrellas, underarm bags, sport hose as well as evening wear hosiery, silk underwear and waists in the latest tunic effect with beads are featured. Attractive displays, too, of gifts may be seen in art glass, table lamps, floor lamps, vases, console sets and other novelties.

Millinery must not be overlooked as hats, which combine colors of fuchsia, burnt orange, Tiger Lily, metal cloths and fur, coming from makers such as "Laurel," "Gage," Bouchweiss,

"Rawak," "Jardene," and Mme. Chekanow, Paris and New York designers, are up to the minute in style, showing models in "Director," "Taylor," and ostrich trim.

Shoes for Milady will conform to the modest no-strap pump, while more serviceable types in oxfords and satin slippers may be used.

Men's Wear, Too. In men's wear, too, there are offerings for even a Chesterfield. Clothiers and haberdashers are showing the metropolitan features. Even in furniture and hardware, up-to-the-minute stocks are available. In fact, nothing has been overlooked. It will pay you, Mr. Mrs. Miss and Master Reader, to visit the stores.

KING'S HEAD STARTS TALK AMONG FRENCH

Dinard Collector Thinks He Has Found Henry IV's.

TOMB IS OPENED

Ruler Often Lost His Heart, But he Retained Head.

PARIS, Sept. 24. — A king's head, even though it happens to be a mummified one, is stirring up a deal of discussion among the French these days.

That Henry IV. lost his heart very frequently during his lifetime, everyone will agree, but no one ever heard of him losing his head. Joseph Bourdais, a faithful Breton of Dinard, however, thinks he has found it and has already taken steps to present it to the Musée Carnavalet of Paris. In 1920 this ever-ready collector bought the head, along with several others, for a few sous at the Hotel Drouot. For some years he has been studying it carefully and has now come to the conclusion that it really is the head of Henry IV.

During the French Revolution of 1793 the tombs of the French kings in Saint Denis Cathedral, the "Westminster of France," were certainly broken open and the remains scattered far and wide. That of the Bourbon king was not spared. History tells us that his lead coffin was opened to expose his body, admirably preserved, and that his white beard proved a constant source of delight to curiosity seekers, who plucked more than one bunch of hair from it. Afterward the body was thrown into a common burial-pit; and, if Monsieur Bourdais' suppositions are correct, some persons having access to the pit must have secretly made away with the treasured head, which is just turning up now. But of all this there is no direct proof, and many scientists and historians are slow to believe it.

It is true that the head was embalmed according to the methods employed during the seventeenth century, and this fact alone indicates that it belonged to a personage of importance. The Bourbon nose, the different shapes of the eyebrows, the pierced ear-lobe, the dimples and the texture of the skin—all support the authenticity of the relic.

But this head is intact; and, according to Lenoir, who saved the monuments of Saint Denis, the skull of Henry IV. had been opened and contained (in place of brains, which had been removed) oakum, covered with extract of aromatics, which gave out a very strong odor.

"Rest at home, with your illusions, old collector of Dinard," advises "Le Temps." "We didn't wait for you to find the head of Henry IV. A gentleman, of the Chateau d'Elbach, in the Oldenwald, had already proudly displayed the same thing, which he declared to have bought in 1793, of a grave digger at Saint Denis itself."

"All of which goes to prove," says Maurice de Waleffe in the Paris Midi, "that, although life may be hard for kings even many disagreeable affairs turn up after one's death. And the only sure way to dispose of the earthly body is to cremate it for good and all. Even the great Ramesses II. was not left to rest in peace; and some conservator of the future ages will certainly amuse himself with the head of Napoleon in the same manner. The better you are embalmed the better chance you stand to have your hand or your foot serve as a paper-weight, or some other trinket, in 10,000 years or so. Burial is barbarism. Fire is the only means of preventing future outrages."

TIMELY VIEWS ON WORLD TOPICS

"American Immigration Act Affects Jap Liberal and Labor Forces."

That the American immigration act recently enacted, has affected the liberal and labor elements in Japan is the statement of Yusaku Kusunoki, Japanese lecturer now in the United States.

"The crucial point," he said, "is whether Japanese liberal forces will be swallowed up by the radical and socialist forces of labor or whether the former will be a factor in moderating influence upon the rising labor group and lead the country along the path of peace and international good will."

"The immigration act of your country created a sensation, bringing in its train an invisible and undeniable desire to fall back on Asia."

"In Japan, agriculture has ceased to be a profitable undertaking. Both the landowners and the tenants are losing their interest in agriculture. They would be only too happy to leave the farms if they could. Here is the seriousness of the problem. In a word, we are up against a great stone wall—the scarcity of land in proportion to population. There are only three ways out of the impasse. We must either increase our land holdings, decrease our population, or industrialize the whole country."

"The Japanese Federation of Labor did not issue any public statement on the American immigration act, so the outside world does not know what its stand really is."

"If I am allowed to reveal the inside story I may say that there has been a pretty hot discussion among the leaders of the Japanese Federation of Labor. One party insisted on issuing a protest over their own names on grounds of humanity, while another party contended that as the immigration policy is purely a matter of economic interest, America had the right to decide as she pleased."

"The reasoning of this latter party runs as follows: The fundamental question was settled in 1907, when Japanese surrendered their right to send immigrants to the United States, and the recent immigration law makes no economic change. The cry of 'national honor' and 'humanity' is entirely sentimental and has no relation whatever to any significant economic interest. The immigration policy of America is perfectly natural so long as capitalism and nationalism rule in this world. A protest would be justified only if it were made to the American Federation of Labor and if the rumor be true that American labor helped pass the bill. If so, American labor has followed in the steps of capitalists and is not living up to the accepted principles of the international labor movement. It is best not to protest at all. This opinion was accepted and the Japanese Federation of Labor made no public statement of policy on the immigration bill."

"The upshot of the matter, therefore is this: The immigration bill tends to drive a wedge between labor and liberalism, and to turn labor more and more to Russia. Japanese labor leaders are saying that the immigration act merely proves the folly of cultivating sentimental relations with capitalist America and the importance of entering into close and binding relations with socialist Russia, with a view of the development of mutual economic interests on the mainland."

Prattle About Picture Plays

Richard Dix is an ordinary good looking young man, but as the hero of the films he gets scores of proposals of marriage from his feminine admirers. Apropos of said proposals Dick writes a polite "Thank you, but I am already happily married."

Dix is a serious looking young man and his roles are very often of a somewhat solemn nature. Do you remember him as the young minister in "The Christian" and recently as the law abiding son in the modern part of Cecil C. DeMille's big production, "The Ten Commandments"?

Dick is a product of the "wide open spaces" of the west—namely, St. Paul, Minn. He attended St. Paul high school and the university of Minnesota, and like so many of our best screen actors, served his apprenticeship on the legitimate stage. He played with Faversham in "The Hawk," "Little Brother," etc., and spent two and one-half years in stock in Los Angeles. "The Christian" and "Souls for Sale" were made for First National and since then he has worked for Paramount almost exclusively. He played opposite Betty Compson in "The Woman with Four Faces," and was the dainty Babe Daniels' leading man in "Sinners in Heaven" and "Unholy Women."

He has just finished his first starring vehicle which is an adaptation of Fitzgerald's "best seller," "This Side of Paradise." It will be released under the title of "Manhattan," and in it Dick is called upon to battle George Siegmann, two years, the cashier of a pool room, at different times and to have minor scuffles with his leading lady, Jacqueline Logan and Gregory Kelly so the fans who like "rough stuff" will have their taste gratified. His next picture will be called "A Man Must Live," from a story of I. A. R. Wylie which was published as "Jungle Law." Jacqueline Logan will be Dix's leading woman in this picture too.

Cissie Fitzgerald, the old time music comedy favorite who was famed for her work, was seriously injured recently during the filming of "So Big." Edna Ferber's novel which stars Colleen Moore. An ancient auto to which she was driving was struck by a motor truck. She will be in bed for a month and her place in the picture had to be filled by Dot Farley.

Larry Semon is filming "The Wizard of Oz." Dorothy Dwan—not related to Alan—is to be Semon's leading lady in the picture and later for life.

And speaking of marriage, Sylvia Breamer is going to take the big step with Dr. Harry W. Martin, a Los Angeles physician. The doctors says he and Sylvia are going to Europe for their honeymoon and that she will give up picture work on her return.

Burbank, Plant Wizard Of Santo Rosa, Lowers Dahlia Growers Cost

SANTA ROSA, Cal.—Luther Burbank, who glides the lily by showing Nature how to improve upon herself, has once more reduced the high cost of living—at least for people who plant dahlia beds.

Heretofore the bulbs necessary for a bed of dahlias have cost anything from a few dollars up. Hereafter, thanks to the new Burbank giant dahlia-flowering zinnia, just about the same effect can be produced for fifty cents.

The new zinnia, larger and more nearly perfected than any at present known to the world, was announced a few days ago by the Santa Rosa plant scientist. He has developed it in a multitude of shades, including crimson, pure white, yellow, old rose, salmon, pink, white shaded with lemon, white shaded with orange, and half a dozen different bronzes.

The new flower has already created tremendous interest, Burbank said recently at his Santa Rosa home.

Another of the scientist's late products is a new rainbow corn crossed with the gigantic Teosinte. It marks the advent of corn as a decorative plant. The new rainbow corn derives its name from the fact that the leaves are striped with many colors. The grain is not superior for food purposes, and the ears are small.

It is more healthful to wear light or medium weight cotton underwear the year 'round, changing the top clothing in accordance with the weather.

KING'S HEAD STARTS TALK AMONG FRENCH

Dinard Collector Thinks He Has Found Henry IV's.

TOMB IS OPENED

Ruler Often Lost His Heart, But he Retained Head.

PARIS, Sept. 24. — A king's head, even though it happens to be a mummified one, is stirring up a deal of discussion among the French these days.

That Henry IV. lost his heart very frequently during his lifetime, everyone will agree, but no one ever heard of him losing his head. Joseph Bourdais, a faithful Breton of Dinard, however, thinks he has found it and has already taken steps to present it to the Musée Carnavalet of Paris.

In 1920 this venerable collector bought the head, along with several others, for a few sous at the Hotel Drouot. For some years he has been studying it carefully and has now come to the conclusion that it really is the head of Henry IV.

During the French Revolution of 1793 the tombs of the French kings in Saint Denis Cathedral, the "Westminster of France," were certainly broken open and the remains scattered far and wide. That of the Bourbon king was not spared. His story tells us that his head coffin was opened to expose his body, admirably preserved, and that his white beard proved a constant source of delight to curiosity seekers, who plucked more than one bunch of hair from it. Afterward the body was thrown into a common burial-pit; and, if Monsieur Bourdais' suppositions are correct, some persons having access to the pit must have secretly made away with the treasured head, which is just turning up now. But of all this there is no direct proof, and many scientists and historians are slow to believe it.

It is true that the head was embalmed according to the methods employed during the seventeenth century, and this fact alone indicates that it belonged to a personage of importance. The Bourbon nose, the different shapes of the eyebrows, the pierced ear-lobe, the dimples and the texture of the skin—all support the authenticity of the relic.

But this head is intact; and, according to Lenoir, who saved the monuments of Saint Denis, the skull of Henry IV. had been opened and contained (in place of brains, which had been removed) oakum, covered with extract of aromatic, which gave out a very strong odor. "Rest at home, with your illusions, old collector of Dinard," advises "Le Temps." "We didn't wait for you to find the head of Henry IV. A gentleman, of the Chateau d'Erbach, in the Oldenwald, had already proudly displayed the same thing, which he declared to have bought in 1793, of a grave digger at Saint Denis itself."

"All of which goes to prove," says Maurice de Waleffe in the Paris Midi, "that, although life may be hard for kings even, many disagreeable affairs turn up after one's death. And the only sure way to dispose of the earthly body is to cremate it for good and all. Even the great Rameau II. was not left to rest in peace; and some conservator of the future ages will certainly amuse himself with the head of Napoleon in the same manner. The better you are embalmed the better chance you stand to have your head or your foot serve as a paperweight, or some other trinket, in 10,000 years or so. Burial is barbarism. Fire is the only means of preventing future outrages."

TIMELY VIEWS ON WORLD TOPICS

"American Immigration Act Affects Jap Liberal and Labor Forces."

That the American immigration act recently enacted, has affected the liberal and labor elements in Japan is the statement of Yusuka Tsurumi, Japanese lecturer now in the United States.

"The crucial point," he said, "is whether Japanese liberal forces will be swallowed up by the radical and socialistic forces of labor or whether the former will be a factor exercising moderating influence upon the rising labor group and lead the country along the path of peace and international good will."

"The immigration act of your country created a sensation, bringing in its train an invisible and undeniable desire to fall back on Asia."

"In Japan, agriculture has ceased to be a profitable undertaking. Both the landowners and the tenants are losing their interest in agriculture. They would be only too happy to leave the farms if they could. Here is the seriousness of the problem. In a word, we are up against a great stone wall—the scarcity of land in proportion to population. There are only three ways out of the impasse. We must either increase our land holdings, decrease our population, or industrialize the whole country."

"The Japanese Federation of Labor did not issue any public statement on the American immigration act, so the outside world does not know what its stand really is."

"If I am allowed to reveal the inside story I may say that there has been a pretty hot discussion among the leaders of the Japanese Federation of Labor. One party insisted on issuing a protest over their own names on grounds of humanity, while another party contended that as the immigration policy is purely a matter of economic interest, America had the right to decide as she pleased."

"The reasoning of this latter party runs as follows: The fundamental question was settled in 1907, when Japanese surrendered her right to send immigrants to the United States, and the recent immigration law makes no economic change. The cry of 'national honor' and 'humanity' is entirely sentimental and has no relation whatever to any significant economic interest. The immigration policy of America is perfectly natural so long as capitalism and nationalism rule in this world. A protest would be justified only if it were made to the American Federation of Labor and if the rumor be true that American labor helped pass the bill. If so, American labor has followed in the steps of capitalists and is not living up to the accepted principles of the international labor movement. It is best not to protest at all. This opinion was accepted and the Japanese Federation of Labor made no public statement of policy on the immigration bill."

"The upshot of the matter, therefore, is this: The immigration bill tends to drive a wedge between labor and liberalism, and to turn labor more and more to Russia. Japanese labor leaders are saying that the immigration act merely proves the folly of cultivating sentimental relations with capitalist America and the importance of entering into close and binding relations with socialist Russia with a view of the development of mutual economic interests on the mainland."

New Cumberland Squad to Oppose Highs Saturday.

Victorious over the strong Dover high school eleven here last Saturday, Coach Carl Zimmerman's high school gridders are confident they will be able to annex another when they tackle the New Cumberland (W. Va.) scholastic eleven Saturday afternoon at Central park.

Although confident of their ability to overcome the Hancock countians, the Orange and Black players are not too sure, but are practicing regularly each evening with a view to developing added strength and skill to back up their expectations of victory in the coming clash.

Under the regime of Coach Stoops, who this year is handling the West Liberty (W. Va.) Normal school team, New Cumberland made a name for itself in valley athletic circles and undoubtedly will put up a stiff struggle in the local appearance.

The Wellsville gridders came out of Saturday's game with Dover without casualties of any kind. Coach Zimmerman has been drilling his charges constantly this week, eliminating minor defects in the team's

GOVERNMENT FACING TASK

Attorney General Plans to Press 700 War Fraud Cases.

WASHINGTON—The colossal task of whipping into "court shape" more than 700 war fraud cases in the hands of the war transactions section of the Department of Justice will be pushed to a rapid conclusion, according to the announcement of Attorney General Stone.

The Attorney-General has recently completed a reorganization of the war transactions section of his department, selecting Paul Shipman Andrews, of Syracuse, and Jerome Michael, of New York City, as directors. Both men are attorneys of national reputation. With a strong force of assistants, they have attacked what is one of the biggest problems of the administration, according to Department of Justice officials.

"In 1922 the colossal task of examining the scores of thousands of wartime contracts on which the Government has paid up, or on which it sold surplus property, proved far beyond the facilities of the Department of Justice," Attorney General Stone declared.

"Accordingly, the war transactions section was organized for the purpose of investigating and prosecuting war frauds and cases in which the Government had overpaid contractors, or has been underpaid on its sales of property.

Recover Millions. "This organization of the department has recovered in two years and paid into the United States Treasury, $6,195,929. It has obtained judgments against contractors for more than $102,268 additional. And compromise offers amounting to more than $2,500,000 are now in its hands.

"Thirty-five indictments charging criminal conspiracies to defraud the Government have been tried, resulting in three convictions, four acquittals and two disagreements."

In spite of these accomplishments, the Attorney-General pointed out that there are 700 cases remaining before the section for action, referred to it by the War Department and other branches of the Government.

Upward of 200 civil cases and twenty criminal actions are pending in the courts and awaiting trial, according to the official announcement.

"An examination of the vast mass of contracts in the Government files is proceeding daily, and as fast as cases are uncovered in which illegal or excess payments appear they are sent to the joint board of survey—a board created by the Presidents in February, 1923, to weed out the cases calling for action by the Department of Justice," Attorney-General Stone continued.

Review All Cases

Andrews and Michael have been instructed to review all cases in the section with a view to speeding up and systematizing their course of action.

"When it is remembered that during the war the Government entered into almost innumerable contracts for the purpose of war supplies, materials and munitions, and for the construction of camps, cantonments and other building projects and that since the armistice it has paid out millions of dollars in the settlement of these contracts and has disposed of vast amounts of surplus war property, the magnitude and importance of the work of the war transaction section becomes apparent," Stone said.

The whole work of the section is regarded as an emergency task by the Attorney-General "to be pushed hard and ended as quickly as is humanly possible to finish so great an undertaking."

The Department of Justice said that Stone intends that "no contractor who got only what he lawfully should, or paid what he lawfully ought, shall be harassed with lawsuits." But where money is due the Government, it was stated, the directors of this section are to leave no stone unturned to get it back.

Actions Classified

"The directors have just completed an entire classification of the cases before the section according to the legal points involved," the department announced. "No law office of twenty odd lawyers, plus a force of accountants and other help, could possibly take care of 700 cases all at once."

"This is especially true of cases as large and complicated as those before the section. In one case alone, now nearly ready for trial, some fifty large steel cases were required to hold the files and papers; and the whole time of a lawyer for months must be spent before such a case can be presented in court, in the face of determined opposition."

Oppose Petting Parties

COLEMAN, O.—Two hundred residents of this vicinity signed a petition asking Belmont county commissioners to have the state law against speeding and petting parties along the Martins Ferry pike enforced. The commissioners will refer the request to the sheriff, it was believed.

"Little Jessie James," Big Musical Comedy Sensation, Booked Here

New York Success Will be Presented at Ceramic Theatre on Monday Evening.

Coming direct from its one year run in New York, L. Lawrence Weber will offer the musical comedy sensation, "Little Jessie James," at the Ceramic theatre next Monday night. This musical play has the most emphatic hit New York had last season and received the unanimous endorsement of the critics. The music is by Harry Archer and it is doubtful if a prettier score was ever written. A Paul Whiteman band is carried by the company to play the music, and the band is a feature itself, is only one of the many admirable points of Mr. Weber's "Little Jessie James." There is a gorgeous production, a splendid cast, a finely trained ensemble and to cap it all, one of the most entertaining plays with music that has been seen on the American stage in years.

The play is farcical in character and has a well defined story that is clean cut, not too full of details to render the interjection of Mr. Archer's tuneful score to make it awkward or ill-timed. Harlan Thompson's story fits the score and the score is admirably set off by the story, a perfect combination that spells triumph for both authors.

"Little Jessie James" is the first musical comedy in years that has been offered in New York without the name of a star to help carry it over and the fact that it was the most successful musical play in the metropolis last season, speaks in the highest terms for the producer, Lawrence Weber, and the authors, Mr. Thompson and Mr. Archer.

While trying to draw pictures of the American cowboys at the Wembley Exposition, Charles Simpson, a noted English artist, had to jump away from the jumping horses so frequently that he attached his colors, brushes and sketching block by strings to his waist.

Facts About Child-birth

It has been proven conclusively that much of the suffering, pain and dread experienced during expectancy, as well as at child-birth is entirely unnecessary. An eminent physician, Dr. J. H. Holmes, expert in this science, first produced the great remedy "Mother's Friend," which aids the muscles and tissues to expand more easily, during the constant readjustment, month after month, right up to the climax of child-birth.

"Mother's Friend" is applied externally. Three generations of expectant mothers have used it. "Pains disappeared in two days after using 'Mother's Friend,'" writes a user. "I owe my life to 'Mother's Friend' as our mother another. Use 'Mother's Friend' as our mother and grandmothers did, start today and experience the wonderful comfort it will give you."

EAST LIVERPOOL—AMERICA'S POTTERY CENTER

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 2, 1924.

Don't Forget to Register

Electors, today is registration day.

Men and women who live in East Liverpool must enroll in their home precinct in order to qualify as voters at the general election on Tuesday, November 4, when national, state, district and county government officials will be chosen.

The state law provides for quadrennial registration here. In keeping with this edict, the enrollment books on which electors were listed during the last four years became null and void.

From 9 a. m. to 3 p. m. and from 5 to 10 p. m., registrars will be on duty in the city's 21 precincts, prepared to enroll voters who expect to exercise their preference among the candidates for political preferment at the general election.

Today's registration qualifies a voter to cast his ballot at all elections during the next four years, providing he or she does not change his or her place of residence. In the latter event, the elector must apply for a transfer to the new voting precinct.

Three other registration days—October 9, 17 and 18—have been designated by the board of deputy state supervisors of elections, but if you are interested in safeguarding your right of franchise you will not defer enrollment.

Registrars will be on the job tonight. If you neglected to enroll during the forenoon or early afternoon, go to the registration place before 10 p. m.

Parental Delinquency

After much harsh criticism of present-day high school children, their misdeeds, their disregard of authority and their irresponsibility, the tide seems to be turning, if not in their favor, at least in their defense.

Judge, east and west, the National Prohibition association and various other organizations whose members ought to know much about the subject, are saying now quite frankly that delinquent parents are the chief cause of delinquent children. Parents allow their minor children too free use of motor cars; parents do not know how their children spend their leisure hours, who are their companions or where they go after school or in the evening. Parental negligence is at the root of much juvenile wrong-doing, say these authorities.

And to a very large extent it is true. Scoldings for their shortcomings and denial of all outings are not the solutions. Many over-indulgent parents frequently nag and scold their children for the very faults encouraged by that indulgence. And many parents who are unjustly strict in limiting their children's pleasure activities drive the boys and girls to sneak out to forbidden fun.

A genuine and lively interest in the children's pastimes and friends, a frank co-operation in promoting their legitimate good times, a definite understanding as to the performance of certain tasks and the maintenance and sound discipline, are necessary if Johnny and Mary are to be protected from dangers which they are too young and inexperienced to cope with alone. Teachers and probation officers can't do this sort of thing for the rising generation. It is up to the parents.

The Daring Motorist

The movies have missed something. At Emporia, Kan., the other day, when a five-year-old girl wandered onto the track in front of a fast passenger train and was about to be run over, a motorist dashed up in a flivver, careened alongside the track at 30 miles an hour, reached over and plucked the child from under the very wheels of the locomotive, and swung aside just as the train whizzed by. He did it by standing on the running board and steering with his right hand while he seized the child with his left.

It is a pity that nobody got a picture of that. But just give Hollywood a chance. You'll see the stunt yet in the films.

This manner of driving suggests, too, that the motor car may be used for any sport ordinarily pursued on horseback. A polo game with the players driving flivvers would be worth seeing.

THE AMERICAN GOVERNMENT

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

11—THE DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR

The department of the interior was created shortly after the Mexican war, when large additions in territory and increasing population and wealth in natural resources required the attention of a special cabinet minister and a staff. The act creating the department was entitled, "An act to establish the home department," and that is what it is.

The interior department contains a group of related bureaus and another group of unrelated bureaus, some of which may be transferred when the plan of reorganization of the government is perfected. The related bureaus concern chiefly the public lands and the natural resources. They are the general land office, the reclamation service, the Indian office, the bureau of mines, the geological survey, the bureau of education, and the national park service. The unrelated bureaus are the pension bureau, the patent office, and certain eleemosynary institutions.

First in rank of the bureaus comes the general land office. The government has, since the foundation of the nation, been its greatest landlord and also has been probably the most bountiful distributor of land to the people in the world's history. Realizing that people, not empty acres, make a country rich and prosperous, it has been the traditional policy of American statesmen to distribute the land freely but equitably to those who desire it.

From the time the government was founded down to the present, 1,835,000,000 acres of land have come into government ownership. All except 182,000,000 acres has been reserved or distributed to the people and the distribution still is proceeding. Incidentally, Uncle Sam has proved a highly successful real estate operator. The entire amount of land which has been purchased by the government cost an average of only five cents an acre. Less than this trifling price was paid for the vast Louisiana purchase, embracing some of the finest land in the country. It now is worth billions of dollars, as it is, with farms, forests, mines and great cities connected by a network of railways.

LAND FOR THE ASKING

The usual method of distributing land has been by the granting of homesteads. A settler can obtain 160 acres of public land for the sole consideration of residence and work. He may have it free if he will live upon it. For stock raising purposes he may have 320 acres. The lands are divided in accordance with their fertility and usefulness. Most of the fine land was taken up in the days of the pioneers of the west, but some still remains.

The oil lands leasing law provides that a homesteader may obtain the right to cultivate the surface of certain lands for agriculture without having the right to drill for oil or dig for minerals. By this means many square miles which otherwise would be held as mineral reserves have been opened to the production of food.

Other lands were sold to the people for sums ranging from $1 to $4 per acre. A total of 1,259,000,000 acres of the public domain has been placed directly in the hands of individual citizens and the distribution is continuing at the rate of 10,000,000 acres a year. Other grants were made to railroad companies to aid them in building the transcontinental lines which opened up the country and made the lands of the settlers more valuable, thus increasing the national wealth. Of the 48 states of the union, 24 no longer contain any public land. Of those which do, Nevada has more than any other, with 32,000,000 acres. Kansas has the least, with 2,944 acres. All government land grants must bear the president's signature and a woman in the general land office affixes it. She is the only person authorized to sign the president's name.

MAKING A DESERT Bloom

Closely associated with the work of the general land office is that of the reclamation bureau. In 1902 congress set aside from funds received for public lands the proceeds of all sales in certain western states and territories to be used for reclamation projects with the exception of a 5 per cent deduction for educational purposes. This was later supplemented by other receipts, notably from royalties under the oil leasing act.

The reclamation fund has reached $140,000,000 and so much work has been done that water storage capacity now has reached 10,000,000 acre-feet, or enough water to cover the state of Connecticut three feet deep. The stored water is used mainly on the government projects, but is also sold to private projects needing it. The area in the first category brought under irrigation ditches is approaching 2,000,000 acres and more than 1,000,000 additional acres in the second category share in the development.

Irrigated lands are opened to settlers, each of whom may take up an amount of land ranging from 20 to 160 acres in extent. The area in each case is that which in the discretion of the secretary of the interior is necessary to maintain a family.

Deeds of daring and resourcefulness almost without parallel in history have been performed in perfecting the great scheme of desert reclamation, and engineering feats have been accomplished which have astonished the world. Of such deeds the Uncompahgre project in Colorado is an example. In the valley of the Uncompahgre river lies land of exceptional value, but until the United States took a hand there was no way to water much of it. Flowing parallel to this is the Gunnison, the route of which lies through a canyon, with a large volume of water and no contiguous land needing it.

These two streams flow 10 miles apart, separated by a mountain 2,000 feet high. It was decided to take the superfluous water from the Gunnison river, divert it into the Uncompahgre, and so make productive thousands of acres in that valley. Then came the men of daring who were to survey the route. Swinging by ropes over precipices, clinging to crevices of rocks, floating down unexplored streams on rubber rafts, and otherwise encountering many dangers, they completed the survey of the tunnel to be cut under the mountain. This tunnel is six miles long.

The chief of the unrelated bureaus is the pension bureau. The admitted pension claims in the files of the bureau are so extensive that they fill 27 rooms and weigh more than a thousand tons. More than three and a half million claims have been filed since the establishment of the pension system. A million and a quarter of these were rejected.

WIDOWS OF 1812

The last Revolutionary war pensioner died April 25, 1911, aged 90. She was Mrs. Pnoebe M. Palmer of Brookfield, N. Y., the daughter of Jonathan Wooley, who served under George Washington in a New Hampshire company. The last widow pensioner of that war was Esther S. Damon, of Plymouth Union, Vt., who died in 1906, at the age of 92. The last survivor of the Revolutionary war was Daniel F. Bakeman, who died at Freedom, Cattaraugus county, N. Y., in 1869, aged 109 years, 6 months and 8 days. Hiram Cronk, of Ava, N. Y., who died in 1905, aged 105 years, was the last survivor of the war of 1812. Only 41 widows of veterans of the war of 1812 were carried on the pension rolls in 1923. The eldest of these is Mahala Huff, Louisa, Ky., who, in 1923, was 104 years old. Her husband was a soldier in a Virginia militia company. Fifty-seven veterans and 1,717 widows of the Mexican war still are on the rolls.

Services rendered by the department of the interior in 1922 have been compared with those rendered in 1902. The analysis shows that in 20 years the patent business of the government increased 50 per cent and the trademark business 100 per cent, though the patent office was given only a 7 per cent increase in its force to do the work. Progress in Indian affairs is indicated by the facts that the value of Indian live stock grew in two decades from $8,000,000 to $30,000,000, and the value of Indian crops

NEWSY GOSSIP OF BIG CITIES

By MICHAEL F. DACEY.

DENVER, Sept. 2.—To travel over half the world with his family, in quest of fortune and a chance in life, enduring untold hardships and privations, then to come to the United States destitute and friendless, only to be deported, was the experience of Otto Barisch, a German, from Johannesburg, South Africa.

But, in spite of the fact that Barisch and his 20-year-old wife and their two babies must go back, Uncle Sam is kind at heart, and while Barisch was relating the misfortune that has been his lot during the past few years to William P. Mansfield, immigration inspector in charge of Denver, as he sat in a Denver jail, Uncle Sam was feeding his wain and starving wife and children in the bare rooms of a small house in a secluded section of Denver, and already arranging to make the family more comfortable.

Barisch told of the years of privation and suffering which he had experienced, and how his every attempt to better himself had resulted only in ill luck; then when he saw a gleam of hope in sight, he said, he made for the United States, managed to get through in spite of immigration officials, but now—and he shrugged his shoulders despairingly.

The young German told how he had been lured in his youth to South Africa, expecting to find there wealth and fortune, particularly in the diamond mines of Kimberley, but after months of suffering there he gave up in bitter disappointment and went to Johannesburg, where he apprenticed himself to a painter.

As a contracting painter Barisch's luck proved to be better. He established himself in business, which became quite profitable as time progressed. He married and one child was born.

Attracted by the wealth which coffee plantations in South America brought to their owners, Barisch gave up his business and with his wife and child started for Brazil.

In Brazil he found things different from the brilliant pictures painted by the writers. Insects and deadly diseases flourished in the swampy coffee country, he said. His wife and child were suffering intensely from the Brazilian climate, but before he could leave that region another baby was born. After leaving Brazil Barisch made his way to Central America. While on route there his baggage and all his possessions were stolen. When he struck Mexico a short time later he was almost without funds.

Then fate struck him another hard and cruel blow, for the remainder of the money with which he started for South America was stolen by Mexican bandits.

Barely able to gain a livelihood in Mexico City by his ability as a painter, he struggled with his family to the American border, near Juarez.

At Juarez fortune was kinder to him, for he was able to save some money in addition to supporting his family. Then, one night he slipped across the border and made his way to Denver, still endeavoring to better his condition. He left his family in Juarez until he should have time to look over things.

He stayed in Denver for a while and was able to save quite a sum of money, then he went to Mexico and brought his family back to Denver with him, but the trip cost him all his resources, and when he reached Denver he was destitute.

Barisch's second entry into the United States had been noticed by immigration officials at El Paso. Inspector Mansfield was notified and he located Barisch shortly afterward.

The family was living in one bare little room, virtually destitute. The babies were crying for nourishment, while his pale and wan wife was just about to give in to a cruel fate when Mansfield located them.

Deportation proceedings will be commenced against the little family, although, according to Mansfield, Barisch may be able to realize enough from his painting to return to South Africa without the stigma of deportation.

rose from $1,000,000 to $11,000,000. In the same period the national park system was expanded from eight parks to 19, and the annual number of visitors to the parks increased from 120,000 to more than a million. While the demands of the people on most government bureaus tend to grow heavier, the people who are served by the pension office are diminishing in number. This is one government bureau which measures the advance of the years by the closed-out pension records of old soldiers who no longer ask anything of Uncle Sam.

Conservative estimates on Germany's fighting force during the last conflict places the number at 6,000,000.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Monk McGlone, whose powerful right kept Essex street merchants terrorized for several years, has left the East Side for the suburban peace of a small Jersey town. He has deserted the scent of garbage for the scent of musk.

Reporters found him out where the pavement ends in a romantic ivy clad cottage spraying the lawn. On the porch was a frail wife of a girl whose fingers were busily applying the needle to some embroidery work. "She done it!" said McGlone a little sheepishly.

East Side, McGlone was raised in the berry wilderness of East Side, dives that cater to all the vices of men. He was a gorilla in size, more than six feet tall with oaklike arms and legs. He began early to work on docks and then went around the Horn on windjammers.

Asbore he sought the fleshpots and found that a man who could use his fists could live without toil. He was at first a saloon bouncer and then drifted naturally through prowess to gang leadership. And then he met her. Love at first sight—the sort of thing the poets blab about.

She was one of the undernourished "little mothers" whose parents worked all day and left her to take care of her younger brothers and sisters. One day McGlone was surrounded by rival gangsters. He was alone but gave a savage guttural warwhoop and plunged in.

When a patrol wagon backed up and they took him away she ran up to him and gave him a faded flower. Three weeks later he was out of jail and hunting for her. He found her and the romance in settings began. McGlone went to work in a chain grocery store.

His gang mocked him and tried to bring him back to leadership. "Loco about a skirt," they jeered. And McGlone, with a menacing leer, admitted it was true, and what were they going to do about it? Wisely, they let him alone. And so they were married.

Prohibition has snuffed out many of the picturesque little clubs of Manhattan. The latest to expire was The Cloister. It was frequented by artists and writers and occupied the top floor of an old house in West Eleventh street. The walls were decorated by the members. Only a few were served.

No doubt it is just as well these clubs expired for their closing shows that the members were drawn there by the false fellowship of liquor. Still their atmosphere was more elevating and stimulating than the hole in the wall cafes where the same clubmen go now to drink poisonous hooch.

There is one of these little cafes, however, where no liquor is served and which smacks of the old days. It is run by a plump little French woman and her two waiters, Jean and Gaston. She makes a specialty of crayfish bisque and stewed eels. Through a glass oval in the kitchen door one may see the fat and benignant cook in immaculate white cap and coat, and there is the smell of onions and herbs and the fragrance of sauces. There are no chair tables but benches where patrons sit and play cards and dominoes. And a few play cubito. It is about the last of the old cafes with French flavor and if it were not for the French neighborhood where it is situated it would wither and perish.

WHO'S WHO

The problems of ex-service men are by no means unknown to James A. Drain, new commander of the American Legion. Drain is an attorney in Washington, D. C., and has personally handled the cases of over a thousand veterans seeking aid through the United States veterans' bureau and other agencies.

The new commander was born in Illinois in 1870. He has practiced law in Nebraska, Washington and the District of Columbia. After serving in the Spanish-American war, he lost his right hand in a hunting accident, but despite this handicap was accepted in the ordnance department of the army, where he served overseas with distinction.

Drain was one of the first department commanders of the legion in the capital and for the past three years has been chairman of the district rehabilitation committee. His first army experience was with the Washington state national guard, where he started as a private and finished as a brigadier general.

GERMANY CAN DO IT

High finance assures us that the United States government and officials are not competent or honest enough to manage big undertakings.

How is it that other nations, Germany for instance, are able to manage public ownership. Wireless telephones, owned by the German people, have just been installed by the German peoples postoffice, on express trains, running between Berlin and Hamburg on a railroad owned by the German people.

AIR BATTLESHIPS WANTED

This writer yesterday asked Charles M. Schwab, biggest battleship builder, why don't you start now and be the biggest builder of fighting airships? This country needs 5,000 of them at least and public opinion will get them.

Schwab smiled his ten-million-dollar smile and said he would think about it.

Meanwhile, business men that put Detroit on the map and Detroit products all over the world, propose to add control of the flying machine industry to their automobile industry. Edsell Ford supplies money for airplane research, and puts a flying field near his Dearborn plant at the service of all working on metal airplanes. The Hudson and Packard motor companies are spending money generously in the same direction.

All that is good news for those interested in this country's independence of foreign domination.

THIS THRIFTY COUNTRY

Somebody is saving money in this country, because of higher wages and prohibition, or what ever you choose. Savings deposited in 1923, as revealed at the bankers' convention in Chicago amounted to more than eighteen thousand million dollars. While the population of the country increased 14 per cent savings bank deposits increased 108 per cent.

Four thousand bankers are gathered together in Chicago as this is written, 4,000 more are expected by tomorrow. They all seem cheerful and expect business to go on growing.

It pays to be prepared. Look at little Switzerland. Every man of fighting age is trained, has his weapon, keeps it in order, under government inspection. Every nation in Europe knows that to conquer Switzerland would cost more than the whole of Switzerland is worth.

Every inch of the mountains and of the valleys would be fought for.

GANDHI STILL STARVING

Poor Gandhi, sincere patriot of India, is still starving. He says he will eat when he reaches the point of death, not before. He is fasting as penance for recent riots between Hindus and Mohammedan mobs; also hoping to "conquer the Englishmen by love." Gandhi is an optimistic mahatman if he thinks Englishmen can be "conquered by love" when it comes to world domination.

Also Gandhi should know that if India could be saved by starving, India would have been saved long ago. Millions of Indians have starved. You don't conquer anybody by starving yourself, but by starving the person to be conquered.

That's the sad iron law of the world.

Mrs. Jones had just engaged a new cook and she had only one misgiving about the matter. Bridget was not at all bad looking, and she feared the young men would be hanging around.

"Now, remember," Mrs. Jones said to her the first morning after breakfast, "no followers are allowed to the kitchen. My last cook had to leave for not keeping to that rule."

A few days later the mistress went to the culinary department on a tour of inspection. She opened the door of a large cupboard and, to her great surprise, found a policeman standing there. She turned an accusing eye on Bridget.

"What's the meaning of this?" she asked grilly.

"I dunno," promptly replied Bridget; "he must have been left there by the last cook."

EAST LIVERPOOL—AMERICA'S POTTERY CENTER

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 2, 1924.

Don't Forget to Register

Electors, today is registration day.

Men and women who live in East Liverpool must enroll in their home precinct in order to qualify as voters at the general election on Tuesday, November 4, when national, state, district and county government officials will be chosen.

The state law provides for quadrennial registration here. In keeping with this edict, the enrollment books on which electors were listed during the last four years became null and void.

From 9 a. m. to 3 p. m. and from 5 to 10 p. m., registrars will be on duty in the city's 21 precincts, prepared to enroll voters who expect to exercise their preference among the candidates for political preferment at the general election.

Today's registration qualifies a voter to cast his ballot at all elections during the next four years, providing he or she does not change his or her place of residence. In the latter event, the elector must apply for a transfer to the new voting precinct.

Three other registration days—October 9, 17 and 18—have been designated by the board of deputy state supervisors of elections, but if you are interested in safeguarding your right of franchise you will not defer enrollment.

Registrars will be on the job tonight. If you neglected to enroll during the forenoon or early afternoon, go to the registration place before 10 p. m.

Parental Delinquency

After much harsh criticism of present-day high school children, their misdeeds, their disregard of authority and their irresponsibility, the tide seems to be turning, if not in their favor, at least in their defense.

Judge, east and west, the National Prohibition association and various other organizations whose members ought to know much about the subject, are saying now quite frankly that delinquent parents are the chief cause of delinquent children. Parents allow their minor children too free use of motor cars; parents do not know how their children spend their leisure hours, who are their companions or where they go after school or in the evening. Parental negligence is at the root of much juvenile wrong-doing, say these authorities.

And to a very large extent it is true. Scoldings for their shortcomings and denial of all outings are not the solutions. Many over-indulgent parents frequently nag and scold their children for the very faults encouraged by that indulgence. And many parents who are unjustly strict in limiting their children's pleasure activities drive the boys and girls to sneak out to forbidden fun.

A genuine and lively interest in the children's pastimes and friends, a frank co-operation in promoting their legitimate good times, a definite understanding as to the performance of certain tasks and the maintenance and sound discipline, are necessary if Johnny and Mary are to be protected from dangers which they are too young and inexperienced to cope with alone. Teachers and probation officers can't do this sort of thing for the rising generation. It is up to the parents.

The Daring Motorist

The movies have missed something. At Emporia, Kan., the other day, when a five-year-old girl wandered onto the track in front of a fast passenger train and was about to be run over, a motorist dashed up in a flivver, careened alongside the track at 30 miles an hour, reached over and plucked the child from under the very wheels of the locomotive, and swung aside just as the train whizzed by. He did it by standing on the running board and steering with his right hand while he seized the child with his left.

It is a pity that nobody got a picture of that. But just give Hollywood a chance. You'll see the stunt yet in the films.

This manner of driving suggests, too, that the motor car may be used for any sport ordinarily pursued on horseback. A polo game with the players driving flivvers would be worth seeing.

THE AMERICAN GOVERNMENT

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

11—THE DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR

The department of the interior was created shortly after the Mexican war, when large additions in territory and increasing population and wealth in natural resources required the attention of a special cabinet minister and a staff. The act creating the department was entitled "An act to establish the home department," and that is what it is.

The interior department contains a group of related bureaus and another group of unrelated bureaus, some of which may be transferred when the plan of reorganization of the government is perfected. The related bureaus concern chiefly the public lands and the natural resources. They are the general land office, the reclamation service, the Indian office, the bureau of mines, the geological survey, the bureau of education, and the national park service. The unrelated bureaus are the pension bureau, the patent office, and certain eleemosynary institutions.

First in rank of the bureaus comes the general land office. The government has, since the foundation of the nation, been its greatest landlord and also has been probably the most bountiful distributor of land to the people in the world's history. Realizing that people, not empty acres, make a country rich and prosperous, it has been the traditional policy of American statesmen to distribute the land freely but equitably to those who desire it.

From the time the government was founded down to the present, 1,835,000,000 acres of land have come into government ownership. All except 182,000,000 acres has been reserved or distributed to the people and the distribution still is proceeding. Incidentally, Uncle Sam has proved a highly successful real estate operator. The entire amount of land which has been purchased by the government cost an average of only five cents an acre. Less than this trifling price was paid for the vast Louisiana purchase, embracing some of the finest land in the country. It now is worth billions overspread, as it is, with farms, forests, mines and great cities connected by a network of railways.

LAND FOR THE ASKING

The usual method of distributing land has been by the granting of homesteads. A settler can obtain 160 acres of public land for the sole consideration of residence and work. Mansfield, immigration inspector in charge of Denver, as he sat in a Denver jail, Uncle Sam was feeding his wife and children, and, in the bare rooms of a small house in a secluded section of Denver, and already arranging to make the family more comfortable.

Barisch told of the years of privation and suffering which he had experienced, and how his every attempt to better himself had resulted only in ill luck; then when he saw a gleam of hope in sight, he said, he made for the United States, managed to get through in spite of immigration officials, but now—and he shrugged his shoulders despairingly.

The young German told how he had been lured in his youth to South Africa, expecting to find there wealth and fortune, particularly in the diamond mines of Kimberley, but after months of suffering there he gave up in bitter disappointment and went to Johannesburg, where he apprenticed himself to a painter.

As a contracting painter Barisch's luck proved to be better. He established himself in business, which became quite profitable as time progressed. He married and one child was born.

Attracted by the wealth which coffee plantations in South America brought to their owners, Barisch gave up his business and with his wife and child started for Brazil.

In Brazil he found things different from the brilliant pictures painted by the writers. Insects and deadly diseases flourished in the swampy coffee country, he said. His wife and child were suffering intensely from the Brazilian climate, but before he could leave that region another baby was born.

After leaving Brazil Barisch made his way to Central America. While en route there his baggage and all his possessions were stolen. When he struck Mexico a short time later he was almost without funds.

Then fate struck him another hard and cruel blow, for the remainder of the money with which he started for South America was stolen by Mexican bandits.

Barely able to gain a livelihood in Mexico City by his ability as a painter, he struggled with his family to the American border, near Juarez.

At Juarez fortune was kinder to him, for he was able to save some money in addition to supporting his family. Then, one night he slipped across the border and made his way to Denver, still endeavoring to better his condition. He left his family in Juarez until he should have time to look over things.

He stayed in Denver for a while and was able to save quite a sum of money, then he went to Mexico and brought his family back to Denver with him, but the trip cost him all his resources, and when he reached Denver he was destitute.

Barisch's second entry into the United States had been noticed by immigration officials at El Paso. Inspector Mansfield was notified and he located Barisch shortly afterward.

The family was living in one bare little room, virtually destitute. The babies were crying for nourishment, while his wife and wife was just about to give in to a cruel fate when Mansfield located them.

Deportation proceedings will be commenced against the little family, although, according to Mansfield, Barisch may be able to realize enough from his painting to return to South Africa without the stigma of deportation.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Monk McGlone, whose powerful right kept Essex street merchants terrorized for several years, has left the East Side for the suburban peace of a small Jersey town. He has deserted the scent of garbage for the scent of musk.

Reporters found him out where the pavement ends in a romantic ivy clad cottage spraying the lawn. On the porch was a frail wisp of a girl whose fingers were busily applying the needle to some embroidery work. "She done it!" said McGlone a little sheepishly.

McGlone was raised in the beery wilderness of East Side dives that cater to all the vices of men. He was a goliath in size, more than six feet tall with oak like arms and legs. He began early to work on docks and then went around the Horn on windjammers.

As he sought the fleshpots and found that a man who could use his fists could live without toil. He was at first a saloon bouncer and then drifted naturally through prowess to gang leadership. And then he met her. Love at first sight—the sort of thing the poets blab about.

She was one of the undernourished "little mothers" whose parents worked all day and left her to take care of her younger brothers and sisters. One day McGlone was surrounded by rival gangsters. He was alone but gave a savage guttural warwhoop and plunged in.

When a patrol wagon backed up and they took him away she ran up to him and gave him a faded flower. Three weeks later he was out of jail and hunting for her. He found her and the romance in settings began. McGlone went to work in a chain grocery store.

His gang mocked him and tried to bring him back to leadership. "Look about a skirt," they jeered. And McGlone, with a menacing leer, admitted it was true, and what were they going to do about it? Wisely, they let him alone. And so they were married.

Prohibition has snuffed out many of the picturesque little clubs of Manhattan. The latest to expire was The Cloister. It was frequented by artists and writers and occupied the top floor of an old house in West Eleventh street. The walls were decorated by the members. Only ale was served.

No doubt it is just as well these clubs expired for their closing shows that the members were drawn there by the false fellowship of liquor. Still their atmosphere was more elevating and stimulating than the hole in the wall cafes where the same clubmen go now to drink poisonous hooch.

There is one of these little cafes, however, where no liquor is served and which smacks of the old days. It is run by a plump little French woman and her two waiters, Jean and Gaston. She makes a specialty of crayfish bisque and stewed eels. Through a glass oval in the kitchen door one may see the fat and benignant cook in immaculate white cap and coat, and there is the smell of onions and herbs and the fragrance of sauces. There are no chair tables but benches where patrons sit and play cards and dominoes. And a few play cubito. It is about the last of the old cafes with French flavor and if it were not for the French neighborhood where it is situated it would wither and perish.

The problems of ex-service men are by no means unknown to James A. Drain, new commander of the American Legion. Drain is an attorney in Washington, D. C., and has personally handled the cases of over a thousand veterans seeking aid through the United States veterans' bureau and other agencies.

The new commander was born in Illinois in 1870. He has practiced law in Nebraska, Washington and the District of Columbia. After serving in the Spanish-American war, he lost his right hand in a hunting accident, but despite this handicap was accepted in the ordinance department of the army, where he served overseas with distinction.

Drain was one of the first department commanders of the legion in the capital and for the past three years has been chairman of the district rehabilitation committee. His first army experience was with the Washington state national guard, where he started as a private and finished up a brigadier general.

TODAY

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune.

GERMANY CAN DO IT

High finance assures us that the United States government and officials are not competent or honest enough to manage big undertakings.

How is it that other nations, Germany for instance, are able to manage public ownership. Wireless telephones, owned by the German people, have just been installed by the German peoples postoffice, on express trains, running between Berlin and Hamburg on a railroad owned by the German people.

AIR BATTLESHIPS WANTED

This writer yesterday asked Charles M. Schwab, biggest battleship builder, why don't you start now and be the biggest builder of fighting airships? This country needs 5,000 of them at least and public opinion will get them.

Schwab smiled his ten-million-dollar smile and said he would think about it.

Meanwhile, business men that put Detroit on the map and Detroit products all over the world, propose to add control of the flying machine industry to their automobile industry. Edsel Ford supplies money for airplane research, and puts a flying field near his Dearborn plant at the service of all working on metal airplanes. The Hudson and Packard motor companies are spending money generously in the same direction.

All that is good news for those interested in this country's independence of foreign domination.

THIS THRIFTY COUNTRY

Somebody is saving money in this country, because of higher wages and prohibition, or whatever you choose. Savings deposited in 1923, as revealed at the bankers' convention in Chicago amounted to more than eighteen thousand million dollars.

While the population of the country increased 14 per cent savings bank deposits increased 108 per cent.

Four thousand bankers are gathered together in Chicago as this is written, 4,000 more are expected by tomorrow. They all seem cheerful and expect business to go on growing.

It pays to be prepared. Look at Little Switzerland. Every man of fighting age is trained, has his weapon, keeps it in order, under government inspection. Every nation in Europe knows that to conquer Switzerland would cost more than the whole of Switzerland is worth.

Every inch of the mountains and of the valleys would be fought for.

This is one result. The money of Switzerland in the markets of the world is worth actually more than the dollars of the United States. Swiss money yesterday sold well above par.

GANDHI STILL STARVING

Poor Gandhi, sincere patriot of India, is still starving. He says he will eat when he reaches the point of death, not before. He is fasting as penance for recent riots between Hindus and Mohammedan mobs; also hoping to "conquer the Englishmen by love." Gandhi is an optimistic mahatma if he thinks Englishmen can be "conquered by love" when it comes to world domination.

Also Gandhi should know that if India could be saved by starving, India would have been saved long ago. Millions of Indians have starved. You don't conquer anybody by starving yourself, but by starving the person to be conquered.

That's the sad iron law of the world.

Mrs. Jones had just engaged a new cook and she had only one misgiving about the matter. Bridget was not at all bad looking, and she feared the young man would be hanging around.

"Now, remember," Mrs. Jones said to her the first morning after breakfast, "no followers are allowed to the kitchen. My last cook had to leave for not keeping to that rule."

A few days later the mistress went to the culinary department on a tour of inspection. She opened the door of a large cupboard and, to her great surprise, found a policeman standing there. She turned an accusing eye on Bridget.

"What's the meaning of this?" she asked grilly. "I dunno," promptly replied Bridget; "he must have been left there by the last cook."

Any breaking out of the skin, even fiery, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying a little Mentho-Sulphur, says a noted skin specialist. It seldom fails to relieve the torment and disfigurement. Sufferers from skin trouble should get a little jar of Rowles' Mentho-Sulphur from any drug store and use it like a skin cream.

MR. JAMES W. MORT.

James W. Mort, living at 1062 Madison street, Wheeling, W. Va., 75 years of age, day watchman at the Windsor Hotel in that city, is very much impressed with the merits of Kadi-ok. In a recent conversation with the Kadi-ok expert at Rau's drug store, Eleventh and Market, he said:

"I suffered a great deal with rheumatism in my knee joints and occasionally the pains would extend down to my feet; my kidneys also bothered me and once in a while I had dizzy spells."

"I learned about Kadi-ok a short time back and made up my mind to try it. In about two weeks' time my rheumatism entirely left me and I have been free from pain ever since; my kidneys are in good shape now, and I sleep all through the night without having to get up at all, which is very unusual for me. I have a good appetite and have not been bothered at all from any dizzy feeling. Kadi-ok helped me feel twenty years younger. It is a sterling good remedy and I am proud to recommend it."

Those who have made a study of the subject learned long ago that most of mankind's ills arise because of the inactivity and disorders of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. Many medicines have been advertised to strengthen and regulate these organs but none seem to have proven as beneficial as Vendol! the new herbal remedy being specially introduced by the Vendol Specialist at Mathew's Medicine Store, Mr. G. D. Pugh, 67 years old of Smith's Ferry, Pa., a man who is well known in this section tried Vendol with the following results. He says: "Here lately, when I felt myself getting rundown, I was mighty anxious to find something to help me. Reading so much of Vendol I decided to try it and it helped me so I'm glad to pass the news along. "Vendol quickly steadied my nerves and overcame those bad dizzy spells that used to come on me. My stomach and bowels are in good shape and I never suffer from indigestion, gassy stomach or constipation any more. The back pains have disappeared, too, and I'm eating and sleeping better than in years. Vendol is surely a fine remedy and any one who feels the least bit rundown should try it."

The Vendol Specialist at Mathew's Medicine Store says: "No one should confuse Vendol with any other medicine they have taken for this new tonic discovery will prove different. I want everyone to call on me and hear the merits of this great remedy."

SUGGESTION.

In mending table linens, threads drawn from old linen are best to use. If the breaks are too small for a patch, strengthen the place with a darning stitch, running the threads surrounding the break to a distance sufficient to protect the weak spot as well as possible. If a patch is inevitable, lay the piece to be inserted under the hole, making sure that the threads run the same way, and baste it neatly in position, then turn in the lips of the tear neatly and sew down the edges with as fine and careful stitches as possible. Next turn the cloth on the other side and trim the patch neatly, ravel the edge a little before turning it under. The raveling

Mr. Pugh tells how "VENDOL" quickly overcame the condition which caused dizzy spells, indigestion, gassy stomach and back pains.

Those who have made a study of the subject learned long ago that most of mankind's ills arise because of the inactivity and disorders of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. Many medicines have been advertised to strengthen and regulate these organs but none seem to have proven as beneficial as Vendol. The new herbal remedy being specially introduced by the Vendol Specialist at Mathew's Medicine Store, Mr. G. D. Pugh, 67 years old of Smith's Ferry, Pa., a man who is well known in this section tried Vendol with the following results.

Roots and Herbs Best for Kidneys

Daniel G. Carey, M. D.

BACKACHE

said Dr. Carey is a pretty sure sign that all is not well with your kidneys. Delay may be dangerous—thousands of people die every year from kidney troubles and many could be saved if the right medicine was taken in time.

Dr. Carey knew how to mix roots and herbs and for over 40 years his famous Marshroot Prescription 777 helped thousands of despairing people. It's the one remedy for backache troubles. Don't take chances ask Car-nahan's Drug Store, Jesse D. Holway for it by name—liquid or tablet form—equally good, 75c.

He says: "Here lately, when I felt myself getting rundown, I was mighty anxious to find something to help me. Reading so much of Vendol I decided to try it and it helped me so I'm glad to pass the news along. 'Vendol' quickly steadied my nerves and overcame those bad dizzy spells that used to come on me. My stomach and bowels are in good shape and I never suffer from indigestion, gassy stomach or constipation any more. The back pains have disappeared, too, and I'm eating and sleeping better than in years. Vendol is surely a fine remedy and any one who feels the least bit rundown should try it."

The Vendol Specialist at Mathew's Medicine Store says: "No one should confuse Vendol with any other medicine they have taken for this new tonic discovery will prove different. I want everyone to call on me and hear the merits of this great remedy."

SUGGESTION.

In mending table linens, threads drawn from old linen are best to use. If the breaks are too small for a patch, strengthen the place with a darning stitch, running the threads surrounding the break to a distance sufficient to protect the weak spot as well as possible. If a patch is inevitable, lay the piece to be inserted under the hole, making sure that the threads run the same way, and baste it neatly in position, then turn in the lips of the tear neatly and sew down the edges with as fine and careful stitches as possible. Next turn the cloth on the other side and trim the patch neatly, ravel the edge a little before turning it under. The raveling takes the turn under softer. Now, sew down the patch with a little stitch on the right side and a longer one underneath. This is the best that can be done, and after laundering, it does not look badly for common wear. Oftentimes, a doilie or dish may be used to cover the spot. When the cloth gives out the edge of the table, it is cheaper to make a centerpiece of the top and napkins of the rest, for it is impossible to mend a long, thin place so that it will not show.

Shepler has filed a petition in common pleas court charging the county commissioners with paying out $1,565 fraudulently to George Lane, Newark contractor, who is building two bridges by force account. Shepler seeks to enjoin further payment to him and to recover what has been paid. He declared that after a two weeks' investigation, he found Lane had padded the payroll, listing wages

Two Cities Protest To Donahey Against Road Route Change

Telegrams, protesting against the proposed change in the River Road route of the Ohio River Highway, were forwarded to Governor A. V. Donahey, Thursday by both the East Liverpool and Wellsville Chambers of Commerce. The telegrams were sent out following a meeting of road boosters of this city, Wellsville and upper Jefferson county communities held here a few days ago to discuss the suggested change in the highway which would route it through Knox, New Somerset and Hammondsville.

The telegram from the East Liverpool Chamber of Commerce read: "A joint meeting of representatives of the East Liverpool Chamber of Commerce and the Wellsville Chamber of Commerce was held on September 30. The representatives requested that a protest be filed with you against any change being made in Route 1, C. H. No. 7, passing through Knox and Saline townships, Jefferson county. The proposed change, as we understand, would lengthen the route some five to seven miles and cut off the towns of Stratton and Port Homer.

"The Wellsville Chamber of Commerce wired as follows: "At a joint meeting of the Wellsville and East Liverpool Chambers of Commerce held today our organizations unanimously authorized me to telegraph you, protesting against any change being made in the routing of the road through the narrow, just west of us in Jefferson county, or even considering a hearing on such change. "SECRETARY."

Religious Classes Open in Churches; 700 Pupils Attend

Classes in Religious Instruction were opened in six of the downtown churches Wednesday with an enrollment estimated at approximately 700. At the First Church of Christ approximately 135 children attended the first day's classes, while at the First Presbyterian church the enrollment was about 150. About 60 reported for the classes at the First Baptist and the St. John's Lutheran churches. Figures were available from the St. Stephen's Episcopal or the First United Presbyterian churches.

Classes will be started by the Church of the Nazarene and the First Methodist Episcopal church, next week. An effort is also being made to have the preliminary work completed in the East End school this week so that classes can also be started in the churches there next Wednesday.

Because of the distance to the downtown section, the Bible classes are being conducted in the Maplewood school each Thursday instead of Wednesday. It is likely that the same arrangement will be made for the Pleasant Heights school.

Are You a Victim of Weak Stomach or Lazy Liver?

Indigestion, gas on the stomach, sourness, belching, nervousness, loss of appetite and a hundred other ills are caused by weak and rundown digestive organs.

Men! Don't Come Home Fagged Out by Hard Work

DOCTORS say that in an enormous number of cases when men come home physically and mentally "all in," nervous and cranky, the real cause is not hard work, but thin, pale, watery blood, deficient in strength-giving iron. Once this iron is restored to the blood it is often astonishing how quickly these men gain new strength, nerve force and endurance.

But he sure the iron you take is organic iron—Nuxated Iron—and not the old-fashioned liquid medicines and pills made by the action of powerful acids on ordinary minerals. Nuxated Iron is a natural organic iron, like the iron in your own blood, and like that in spinach and lettuce. Does not injure teeth nor disturb the stomach. So remarkable are the effects of Nuxated Iron that thousands of weak, nervous fagged out men and women have often increased their strength, energy and endurance in only two weeks' time.

Try Nuxated Iron just two weeks. Money back if not delighted. But make certain you get genuine guaranteed Nuxated Iron tablets with the letters "N" on every tablet. At all good drug-gists.

Two New York Players

not suggested the idea, as O'Connell charged.

Useless Move, Says Landis. Before departing for Washington, Judge Landis expressed his surprise that such a seemingly useless move should have been made by the banished players. The Giants needed but one more game to win. They beat Philadelphia, 5 to 1, while Brooklyn was defeated by Boston, after Sand refused the alleged offer Saturday.

"It is deplorable that any player should attempt to win by dishonest methods," Judge Landis said. "It is a source of deep regret to me. The one thing that compensates in a measure for the whole thing is the thought that a majority of players are honest and the action of Player Sand in reporting the matter to his manager was highly commendable."

Heine Sand reported to the Phillies this season from the Salt Lake club of the Pacific Coast league, where he played against O'Connell. O'Connell reported last season, after making what was at that time a record for a minor league. He did not make a regular place in the Giant lineup, but was used as a pinch hitter and as utility outfielder.

Exonerate Other Players. In his statement of his official action, Judge Landis said his judgment had been based on evidence furnished by the confessions of O'Connell and the testimony of Dolan.

He said O'Connell placed responsibility of instigating the scheme on Dolan, whose testimony in his own behalf was such a character as to be unacceptable.

Regarding O'Connell's alleged attempt to implicate Frisch, Young and Kelly, the Commissioner said "their testimony, in the Commissioner's opinion, was a clear refutation of the charge."

Captain Frisch later said: "I didn't know anything about the matter until I was called before Commissioner Landis. I haven't thought about how it will affect the team, but I think we will be all right in the series."

"I was taken completely by surprise and didn't know that anything was amiss until Commissioner Landis questioned me," Kelly said. "I have no statement to make except to say that it never entered my mind to attempt to bribe a player anywhere. The charge of O'Connell is absolutely false as far as I am concerned."

No Further Inquiries.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—"My original statement covers everything at this time," Judge Landis declared when asked for further information about the suspension of Jimmy O'Connell, outfielder, and Cozy Dolan, coach, of the New York Giants, for attempting to bribe another player.

Asked if he considered O'Connell's statement, involving Frank Frisch, George Kelly and Ross Young, his teammates, was of any value, the Judge continued:

"Do you? If such men as Frisch, Kelly and Young were guilty, you might as well go ahead and tear down the temple. Their statements to me were clear and straightforward. I have completely exonerated them."

Landis declined to answer questions as to what effect the O'Connell-Dolan bombshell would have on the holding of a future world's series, nor would he say whether the declaring of O'Connell and Dolan ineligible closed the investigation.

"I see I am quoted to the effect that the case will lead to sweeping investigations," Landis said. "Nothing could be farther from the truth. I know of no further inquiries to make at this time. However, something unforeseen might develop to reopen the case. Who knows?"

Dolan's Nerves Snap (Copyright, 1924, by I. N. S.) NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—The steely nerves of Cozy Dolan, one of the most picturesque characters in baseball and once one of its greatest third basemen, which never failed him in the tightest pinches of games that made history, snapped today as a result of his suspension with Jimmy O'Connell in the New York Giants' bribery scandal. Dolan, collapsing from the shock, was confined to his bed, from where he feebly sent out a denial of any guilt.

BY DAVID SENTNER. Copyright, 1924, by I. N. S. O'Connell Says He's Goat. NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—They're making a goat out of me. I've been a damned fool."

That's what Jimmy O'Connell, suspended New York Giant outfielder, said today of his team mates and himself in admitting that he offered Heine Sand, of the Phillies, $500, to throw Saturday's game and in claiming that the whole Giant team was in on the deal. He made his defense and accusations when interviewed in the clubhouse of the Polo grounds this morning.

O'Connell, pathetically waiting for official word at the park that he was out of baseball, made no effort to be little the part he played in the bribe attempt. He was waiting also for

Cozy Dolan, suspended alone with him, to appear at the Polo Grounds "to have it out" with Dolan.

The suspended player was bitter toward all his teammates.

Implicates Other Players. "They picked me," he said, "because I knew Sand well. We met out in the Coast league when I played with Salt Lake. I've known Heine since we both were in the bushes."

"Dolan put his proposition to me, the whole team would chip in to that was Saturday morning. He said make up the $500."

"Frankie Frisch, Pep Young and George Kelly all knew about it. When I told Pep what Dolan had said, Young said, 'Go to it.' Then I told Frisch and Frank said, 'Give him anything he wants,' meaning Sands. 'I asked Kelly what he thought about it, too. George knew all about it. I could tell that he had been approached by Cozy from the way he talked.'"

Then O'Connell told about how he had approached Sand once he was certain he had the support of the team.

"It was just before Saturday's game," he said. "During batting practice I talked to Heine on the third base line."

"How do you fellows feel about the game?" I asked Sand.

"We don't feel," replied Heine. "We're just finishing the season and don't care who wins."

"I said to Heine, 'I'll give you $500 if you don't beat down on us too hard.' He just answered 'nothing doing.'"

Followed Orders, He Claims. "Then I walked back to the bench and told Dolan what Sand had said. Cozy didn't say anything."

Here O'Connell stopped in his recital. He was as depressed as any ball player that ever sank into baseball ignominy ever was.

"I've been a damned fool," he blurted out. "I didn't want to get into a mess like this. But, I was just following out orders. I don't know what I'm going to do now—except that I'm going to wait here until Dolan shows up and call him a liar to his face. He kept telling Commissioner Landis 'I don't remember, I don't remember' when Landis was questioning us."

"Didn't you think it funny that such an offer as you say it was should come from Dolan?" the player was asked.

"No, I didn't think it was funny. The whole team seemed to be in on it," O'Connell retorted.

"Have you heard of any other bribery attempts during this season?"

"No, I haven't," O'Connell said.

O'Connell, feeling the outcast he is, shambled away, waiting for Dolan to appear—the thing at the moment nearest his heart since he feels that he is the "goat."

Pep Young strolled into the clubhouse and was asked what he had to say about O'Connell's story that Young "knew all about it." Young denied it.

Sand Gives His Version.

HAZLETON, Pa., Oct. 2.—Heine Sand, Philly shortstop, today gave his version of what happened at the Polo grounds at New York last Saturday when the alleged attempt was made by Jimmy O'Connell, Giant outfielder, to get him to "throw" the game to the Giants for $500.

Still reluctant to talk because of orders from Judge Landis, Sand opened up sufficiently to say no one else was implicated when the offer was made by O'Connell. "There were no details given," said Sand, "as to when or where or how the money was to be paid and no one else was implicated when the offer was made to me."

"Despite the rain of the fore part of the week the work on the tabernacle is coming right along," said James Heaton, advance representative of Dr. Biederwolf on Thursday.

"We propose to rush the work on it from now on, weather permitting. The sheeting and the roof should be completed by Saturday if we make the progress expected. Then next week we can go ahead more leisurely with the erection of the large platform and the putting in of seats."

Unless something unforeseen occurs I hope to have the entire structure completed by Saturday, October 11. That will leave one week before the meeting opens for any further work that may be necessary."

Mr. Heaton has received word that Arthur G. Breaker of Crawfordsville, Ind., will arrive here the latter part of this week to begin his duties as caretaker of the tabernacle. He will sleep in the office room to be erected in the southeast section of the tabernacle and will have full charge of the edifice during the time the building is not utilized while the revival is on.

Mr. Breaker, a teacher, was in the navy during the world war and since then has been connected with Mr. Heaton in the administration building at Winona Lake, Ind., and also with the chautauqua which he conducted during the winter at Daytona, Fla. Mr. Breaker will motor here and, when the meetings are over, proceed south. He will have charge of the distribution of singing books during the revival.

Ministers of the co-operating churches are making plans to exchange pulpits on the Sunday preceding the coming of Dr. Biederwolf here. All will speak on subjects pertinent to the campaign that is to follow.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Every department of the stock market was stimulated today by the sharp rise in price of St. Louis, San Francisco preferred stock, which the directors, after the close of yesterday's market, returned to a 6 per cent. dividend basis. Though the intended action of the directors' was well known in Wall Street, and the stock was heavy at the close of the previous session, it jumped 6½ points at the opening today to a new high at 73½. At that point it encountered heavy selling and declined to 71, around which level trading was extremely active.

A number of industrial stocks which had been heavily sold in the last few days were in a position to benefit from the wave of bullish enthusiasm, which passed over the market in the first hour, and they responded with moderate rallies in prices, such stocks as Baldwin, Famous Players, General Electric, etc., advancing a point or more.

Oil stocks, under the leadership of Pan-American, continued the rally which had been in progress at the end of Wednesday's session, leading independent company shares like Cosden, Phillips, Producers and Refiners, and Texas Company selling fractionally higher. The Railroad equipment stocks, as a group, were more prominent both for activity and market buoyancy, the best records being made by Baldwin, New York Air Brake and Railway Steel Springs. Interest in the Equipment stocks has been stimulated by the heavy increase of orders for new cars and engines in recent weeks.

Mack Trucks led the Motor Stocks with an advance of 10½, the highest price for the movement, Pierce Arrow Preferred sold up one point at 33½; Studebaker at 41½ and General Motors around 61. United States Steel was inactive at fractionally higher prices, Copper stocks reactionary, rails steady on a reduced volume of trading.

Call money renewed at 2½ per cent and time rates were easier following the completion of the October financial settlements. Cotton prices moved in a narrow range, with the trend slightly higher, bond market was steady.

The committee in charge of the luncheon is made up of Mrs. Harvey McHenry, Mrs. George Moore, Mrs. Brown, Miss Eva Ogilvie, Mrs. A. H. O'Brien, Mrs. Harry J. Repine and Mrs. O. L. Benedum of East Liverpool, and Mrs. J. A. Mylar of Newell, W. Va.

The menu has been divided among the following churches: Coffee, Methodist Protestant; sandwiches, First Presbyterian; pie, First United Presbyterian and the First Baptist churches.

"Despite the rain of the fore part of the week the work on the tabernacle is coming right along," said James Heaton, advance representative of Dr. Biederwolf on Thursday.

"We propose to rush the work on it from now on, weather permitting. The sheeting and the roof should be completed by Saturday if we make the progress expected. Then next week we can go ahead more leisurely with the erection of the large platform and the putting in of seats."

Unless something unforeseen occurs I hope to have the entire structure completed by Saturday, October 11. That will leave one week before the meeting opens for any further work that may be necessary."

Mr. Heaton has received word that Arthur G. Breaker of Crawfordsville, Ind., will arrive here the latter part of this week to begin his duties as caretaker of the tabernacle. He will sleep in the office room to be erected in the southeast section of the tabernacle and will have full charge of the edifice during the time the building is not utilized while the revival is on.

Mr. Breaker, a teacher, was in the navy during the world war and since then has been connected with Mr. Heaton in the administration building at Winona Lake, Ind., and also with the chautauqua which he conducted during the winter at Daytona, Fla. Mr. Breaker will motor here and, when the meetings are over, proceed south. He will have charge of the distribution of singing books during the revival.

Ministers of the co-operating churches are making plans to exchange pulpits on the Sunday preceding the coming of Dr. Biederwolf here. All will speak on subjects pertinent to the campaign that is to follow.

Don't Be Thin; Increase Your Weight and Develop Your Figure

Gain a few pounds in a few weeks

If you wish to quit the ranks of thin folks, increase your weight and develop your figure, begin taking 4 CAR-NOL tablets each day, 1 after each meal and 1 on retiring. In a few weeks you will probably have gained a few pounds and if you continue the treatment the chances are that you will attain your normal weight in proportion to your height. Thin folks are said to have less vitality and power of resistance—and are therefore more liable to contagion and sickness—than those who are more robust; hence the desire of thin persons to put on flesh, thus increasing their weight and strength. It is not enough to eat more food if you are not able to assimilate what you eat. About everybody knows that the majority of thin people eat more than those who are fat, but it does not do them any good, because their system is in no condition to assimilate the food it receives. CAR-NOL, one tablet with each meal, serves as an assimilative agent, a sort of missing link between eating and putting on flesh. Thin men and women who take CAR-NOL with each meal soon begin to appreciate its good results and often gain at the rate of 2 or 3 pounds per week. If you wish to be one of these men or women, why not give CAR-NOL a trial? For sale by Jesse D. Holway and all good druggists. Mail orders filled. Price, $1.00. There were only four clear days during September, according to the official weather report for this district just issued by United States District Observer L. H. Copeland, of Millport. There were also six full cloudy days and 20 partly cloudy days.

The first frost of the season was the morning of September 5, and there was also frost on the 7th, 23rd, 24th and 25th. There was rain on 11 days, when more than .01 inches of rain fell.

September was noted for its cool days and nights, with 12 days of rain and easterly winds, and also for the lack of sunshine. This caused the corn crop to remain in a green condition, and at this time there is little prospect of the crop ripening. On five different nights during the month the temperature fell below 40, causing light frosts, but no damage was done. An unusual precedent of the month was to have no killing frosts. The lowest temperature for September was 27 and the highest is 82.

The mean maximum temperature for the month was 68.8 and the mean minimum was 47.1, the mean temperature being 57.9. The warmest day in September was on the first, when 87 was registered, and the coolest was September 11, when 33 was registered. The greatest daily range of temperature was September 11, when there was a range of 35 degrees.

The report goes into history somewhat by recalling that while September last set a new record for rainfall, with a record of 8.25 inches, the nearest approach was in 1912, with a fall of 5.42 inches. On September 2, 1912, which was Labor Day, there was a fall of 3.50 inches of rain, and this resulted in a flood of considerable proportion.

TWO STATE TAX EXPERTS HERE

New Reappraisal Records of County Being Reviewed.

Two members of the state tax commission, C. A. Horn, vice chairman, and John R. Cassidy, both of Columbus, have arrived in this county to review the reappraisal records as they have so far been completed. In company with County Auditor Hamilton the members of the commission spent Wednesday morning going over the records in the office of Mr. Hamilton, and in the afternoon the trip went into the field, and this program was repeated today.

The visit to this county at this time is required by law, and the commissioners also have the right to increase or decrease valuations as they may deem proper.

During the last two months the commission has had a representative in this county reviewing the list of deeds that have been recorded, and wherein the consideration has been announced as "$1 and other valuable considerations." The "lead" to the value of all such property is indicated by the value of revenue stamps affixed to the deed, which is also shown on the record book. The purchase price of the property is then compared with the valuation listed for taxation, and in this manner a true valuation of the land or building can be determined. That such investigation will cause a change in the valuation of many properties is generally admitted by those who are acquainted with the work of the investigator.

It is considered likely that within a few weeks a complete record of the reappraisal will be announced by Mr. Hamilton, and this will show whether lands and buildings in the different taxing districts have in total been decreased or increased. Various estimates have been made as to the ultimate total of the record, and some have gone so far as to intimate that at least $10,000,000 will be added to the duplicate, while others have declared that should this prove true, there is bound to be a reduction in the rate.

No announcement has been made how long the members of the tax commission will remain in this county.

May File Answer.

The purchase price of the property is then compared with the valuation listed for taxation, and in this manner a true valuation of the land or building can be determined. That such investigation will cause a change in the valuation of many properties is generally admitted by those who are acquainted with the work of the investigator.

It is considered likely that within a few weeks a complete record of the reappraisal will be announced by Mr. Hamilton, and this will show whether lands and buildings in the different taxing districts have in total been decreased or increased. Various estimates have been made as to the ultimate total of the record, and some have gone so far as to intimate that at least $10,000,000 will be added to the duplicate, while others have declared that should this prove true, there is bound to be a reduction in the rate.

No announcement has been made how long the members of the tax commission will remain in this county.

At last the way has been found to combine Pepsin with other corrective stomach agents so that it will do the most good in the shortest possible time.

Why bother with slow actors when one deserts spoonful of this splendid and pleasant liquid remedy will cause gas, bloating, heaviness, acidity, heartburn or any upset condition of the stomach to speedily vanish.

And why should any man or woman suffer another hour with indigestion or any stomach misery when the remedy that acts almost instantly can be easily procured?

IRELAND CAN PICK UP TRADE

Judge Cohalan Gives His Views on Conditions In Erin.

DUBLIN — "Ireland seems to be taking her place with the other countries of Europe who are struggling under a permanent indebtedness. In a large sense Ireland was starting without a burden." This was the opinion of Judge Cohalan in a recent interview. The judge, who is on a visit to Ireland, will not return to America for some months yet.

"Irish bank statistics show that there is plenty of capital in the country, and if capital could be properly worked there would be an end to unemployment. But I would not like to see Ireland become an industrial country in the sense that the United States, England and Germany are," he added.

"Because of its geographical position, as well as of the genius of its people, Ireland should become one of the great trading nations of the world, but to do this care must be given to the reorganization of the transport system, development of rivers, waterways and harbors. There is no reason why Ireland, with its wonderful harbors, should not be made the land to which the great bulk of American exports to Europe should be sent before being distributed to the various countries to be consumed.

Last year American tourists spent over $400,000,000 in Europe. Twenty per cent of that amount could be spent in Ireland if a campaign of preparation and advertising were carried out on behalf of Ireland. But the Irish people must be content with the small profits from many rather than large profits from few, and not get the name of overcharging. In overcharging the Irish are simply overreaching themselves because one dissatisfied tourist returning to America keeps hundreds of others from coming to Ireland."

Royalty is Awed By "Cat and Canary," Big Mystery Play

"The Cat and the Canary," coming to the Ceramic theatre Thursday, Friday and Saturday, with Saturday matinee, has played some distant spots long before it reaches nearby ones. One in the former division is London where the Shaftsbury theatre housed the visitors. King George and Queen Mary of England, Queen Maud of Norway and the Duke of York formed one party.

That is in passing. What is more important is the old calculation that human nature is the same the world over. John Willard, who is writing a thriller for this country, wrote one for every country. At least this is the reaction in English critics.

The Daily Express spoke of it as "American ingenuity developed to the highest pitch of efficiency." The Times said "It was received with fearful joy." The Standard warned that "you are shaken and shocked and pinched" and added that "playgoers who like 'The Bat' will like 'The Cat and the Canary' just as well or better." The Chronicle critic wrote: "I held onto the arms of my chair and very nearly shrieked out a warning." While the Evening News said: "The audience grasped its knees and its seat arms and unclasped its fingers in an agony of suspense."

Perhaps the "wisest crack" in the history of this play's reviews was written by a Chicago critic who wrote: "Not only strong women but weak men screamed."

Mines Change Hands. WHEELING, W. Va.—Richland Coal Co., interests in this city have purchased the Otto-Marmet Coal & Mining Co., producers of the high-grade Raymond coal at mines on the Kanawha river, 18 miles from Charleston, for approximately $2,500,000, according to the announcement of the local office. The deal included 8,000 acres of coal, river steamers, barges and terminals, the latter at Cincinnati.

Sharp Controversy Started at Tokio Over Radio Report

TOKYO.—A controversy has been started here over the statement of operators of the Hiraio wireless station, near Tokyo, that they distinctly heard a radio program broadcasted from Station KGO, Oakland, California, recently.

Mr. E. Sygama, head of the foreign section of the wireless department of the Department of Communications, said that it was highly improbable, but not entirely impossible, that the operators heard America. Others laugh at the idea and say some private and secret broadcasting station has played a joke on the gullible operators.

The Japanese government still prohibits the broadcasting of messages from private stations, but it is known that there are secret stations hidden in and around the capital. Occasionally the police set a clew which leads them to raid a house and capture the instruments and hapless radio fan.

Receiving sets are also banned so far as private individuals are concerned, although there are shops in the city which display them for sale, and there are said to be in the neighborhood of 10,000 receiving sets in Tokyo. They are of the type which require an antenna on top of the buildings and so remain undetected.

One station, situated in Shiba park and designated as Station P, is authorized by the government to broadcast an hour's program daily. The program is sent out from 11 a. m. to 12 noon and consists largely of news and propaganda for the government.

MY DAUGHTER WOULD CRY AT EVERYTHING

Nervous and Irritable. By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Became Entirely Normal

Clinton, Wisconsin.—"My daughter was in a very run-down condition, and was irritable, and would cry at every little thing she was so weak and nervous. As Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had helped me when I was a girl I gave it to her to build her up, and the results were all that we could wish for. I wish that every mother with growing girls would try it for these troubles girls often have. I had taken it myself before my girl was born, and she was one of the nicest babies any one could wish to have. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to women and girls and cannot praise it too highly." — Mrs. I. A. HOLFORD, Box 48, Clinton, Wisconsin.

Mothers can depend upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve their daughters of those troubles they so often have. They know from experience the value of the Vegetable Compound in the treatment of these complaints and many, like Mrs. Holford, give it to their daughters.

Children Are Ill if they won't play

Watch them carefully. You can forestall a serious ailment with a spoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin

WHEN you see a child moping, avoiding companions and toys and play, look at its tongue and you will usually find it coated—a reliable symptom of constipation.

Forthwith give a teaspoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It will operate in a few hours and the child will feel better again. If there is also feverishness, sneezing and sniffing give another teaspoonful the following night, to make sure that all danger is past.

It is perfectly unnecessary to give young children strong physics and cathartics as they are apt to set up a bad habit they will later find difficult to throw off.

A mild vegetable laxative like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin meets all their requirements, and as it is pleasant to take you will find no difficulty administering it.

Experienced mothers learned its value long ago, for it has been on the market over thirty years, and Mrs. Josie Clark, Rocky, Okla., and Mr. Charles Lewis, Blackwood, N. J., attribute the general good health of their families to the prompt use of Syrup Pepsin at the right moment. They have it constantly in the house, knowing they can relieve over night constipation, biliousness, dyspepsia, flatulence, headache, sour stomach, fevers, colds and other disorders accompanying or due to a constipated condition of the intestines and bowels.

GUARD FISHER
LOST TO HIGHS

Eugene Fisher, guard of the Newell High school football team, who suffered a fractured shoulder in the game with the East Liverpool High school team 10 days ago, will be lost to coach Kidder for the remainder of the season.

Fisher's injury has healed and it was thought that he would be available for the Chester game Saturday, but his physician ordered him to quit the gridiron sport for the season.

New Savings Record.

A new savings record for a single room was established and the high total mark of the term was shattered by Newell school children last week. The stamp sales report of Superintendent A. D. Osborn shows:

Seventh grade pupils saved $31.63, the largest amount saved by pupils in one room during the last several years. The savings by grades follows: first $4.29; second, $2.60; third, $5.31; fourth, $4.51; fifth, $4 cents, $5.31; $2.80; seventh, $31.63; eighth, nothing; room nine, $1.25.

DESKS AWAITED
FOR SCHOOL TERM

Delay in the arrival of school seats and desks is preventing the opening of the new class room for the Newell school in the Nazarene church building in Third street.

School officials have made all arrangements to use the structure in an effort to relieve the congestion in the fourth grade.

Although the new tabernacle of Nazarene church at the corner of Third and Washington streets will not be completed until the middle of October, the church officials have informed school authorities that they may occupy the room whenever they are ready.

In the event that the school is occupied before the new building is completed, the structure will be used for both school and religious purposes.

Open Air Prayer Meeting

An open air prayer meeting will be conducted at 7 o'clock Friday evening.

FAITH IN NATURE
GAVE HIM HEALTH

William McCombs, 1042 Dresden avenue, East Liverpool, owes the good health and the happiness he is now enjoying to the faith he had in some day finding the means of relieving the appendix trouble from which he suffered for years and refusing to give up his search for it.

"The all-wise Creator provided growing plants and weeds that cure all manner of other ills and I was certain that He had not failed to produce something in Nature that would relieve my appendicitis," he told Mr. Dyar, the Health Evangelist, who is introducing World's Tonic here. "I had tried many things," continued Mr. McCombs, "including a number of doctors, but in spite of all, I continued to suffer until I heard about World Medicine company's search of the world for medicinal roots and herbs and the wonderful discoveries of their scientists. I always had great faith in natural medicines and so I bought a bottle of World's Tonic and began taking it.

"Within seven days all signs of my appendicitis had disappeared and I felt like a new man. Not only that but the bloating distress after eating, headaches and stomach misery from which I suffered as well, also disappeared. I gained in flesh, too, and am thankful that I found this great gift of Nature for the relief I have obtained from it is worth a thousand times the small amount it cost me. I earnestly advise every suffering person to try it."

Such stories as this come to Mr. Dyar every day from grateful people whom World's Tonic has relieved of some affliction, ill or misery, and he has literally thousands of letters like them in his files from people from all over the country.

World's Tonic is sold at Carnahan's, 114 East Sixth St., East End, and C. N. Brannon's, Wellsville, and all other good drug stores at $1.00 per large bottle.

ing at the corner of Washington and Fourth streets by members of the congregation of the First Methodist Episcopal church.

After the street meeting, another service will be conducted in the home of Miss Mollie Barnes.

Clyde Railing was the leader at the mid-week services conducted in the church Wednesday evening.

Rebekah-Odd Fellow Meeting.

A joint social meeting for members of Pride of Newell Lodge Daughters of Rebekah and Clark lodge, No. 447, I. O. O. F., will be held at 7:30 o'clock Thursday evening in the Odd Fellows' hall in this Aaron building. Cards and dancing will be the chief diversions. Refreshments will be served.

Remember "Sulphur and Molasses?"

IN the good old days you were fed this at Spring-time. Mother knew the value of sulphur as a regulative power. Science finds its presence necessary in the daily diet.

Sulphur enters into the proper functions of body organs and is important to digestion. BETSY ROSS bread contains not only some of the sulphur needed but also the vital phosphorus, calcium and iron, as well as other mineral salts that bring health and protection.

All breads are not alike. BETSY ROSS is scientifically blended to complete the balanced diet. It helps supply the sources of growth, energy and immunity. Beyond this, it is a loaf of exquisite flavor—tasty, tempting, delicious.

Apricot Pudding

Butter a mould generously, sprinkle bottom and sides with chopped almonds. Cut two slices of BETSY ROSS lengthwise of loaf three-fourth inch thick to exactly fit the mould. Beat the yolks of three eggs lightly, add one-half cup of sugar, one-fourth teaspoon of salt, one teaspoon of vanilla and one cup of milk. Soak bread in the mixture and fit one piece in the mould. Cover with halves of canned or cooked dried fruit, fit in the other piece of bread, and pour over the remaining custard. Put the mould in a pan of hot water, cover with buttered paper and bake in a moderate oven until firm. Allow to stand ten minutes before removing from the mould. # Judith of Blue Lake Ranch

By JACKSON GREGORY.

And she meant it. It was perfectly clear that she spoke in utter sincerity. For this long, summer day, no matter how she would feel tomorrow, Marcia was in tune with the open, yearned for the life blown clean with the air of the mountains. In the morning, her mood had been one of rebellion, for her mother had said things which both hurt and shocked the girl. Her mother was so mercenary, so unromantic. Now, as a bit of reaction, the rebellious spirit had grown tender; opposition had been followed by listlessness; and into the mood of tender listlessness there had come a man. A man whom Marcia had never noted until now and who was an anomaly, almost a mystery.

Fate, in the form of old Carson, turned a herd of bellowing steers out into the fields lying between the meadow and the ranch house that afternoon just as Marcia, making a late concession to propriety, was shaking her skirts and lifting her parasol. It was scarcely to be wondered at that the steers seemed to Marcia a great herd of bloodthirsty beasts. Then there were her pink gown and sunshade.

"Oh, dear, oh, dear!" cried Marcia.

So it was under Lee's protection that she went back through the meadows and to the house. At first she was frightened by the strange noises his led horse made, little snorts which made her jump. But in the end she put out a timid hand and stroked the velvet nose. When finally Bud Lee lifted his hat to her at the base of the knoll upon which the house stood, Marcia thanked him for his kindness.

"I've been terribly unconventional, haven't I?" she smiled at him. "But I mustn't again. Next time we meet, Mr. Lee, I am not even going to speak to you. Unless," relenting brightly, "you come up to the house and are properly introduced!"

As she went through the lilacs Lee saw her wave her parasol to him.

Three days later Bud Lee learned that Judith Sanford was, after all, "just a girl, you know," that at least for once in her life she had slipped away to be by herself and to cry. He stopped dead in his tracks when he came unexpectedly upon her, became suddenly awkward, embarrassed, a moment uncertain, but yielding swiftly to an impulse to run for it. "Come here, Bud Lee!" commanded Judith sharply, dabbing at her eyes. "I want to talk to you."

He was at the Upper End where he had ridden for half a dozen young horses which were to be taken down into the meadow for their education. And here she was, on a bench outside the old cabin, indulging herself in a hearty cry.

"I didn't know you were here," he stammered. "I was going to make some coffee and have lunch here. I do, sometimes. It's a real fine day, isn't it, Miss Sanford? Nice and warm and—" His voice trailed off indistinctly.

"Oh, scat!" cried Judith at him, half laughing, still half crying. She had wiped her eyes but still two big tears, untouched, trembled on her cheeks. In spite of him Lee couldn't keep his eyes off them.

"I'm just crying," Judith told him then, with a sudden assumption of cool dignity which had in it something of defiance. "I've got a right to, if I want to, haven't I? What do you look at me like that for?"

"Sure," he answered hastily. "It does you good to cry; I know. Great thing. All ladies do, sometimes—"

Judith sniffed.

"You know all that there is to be known about 'ladies,' don't you? In your vast wisdom all you've got to do is lump 'em in one of your brilliant generalities. That's the man of you!"

Lee went into the cabin without looking back. Judith, watching him, saw that he ran his hand across his forehead. She sniffed at him again. But when Lee had the coffee ready she had washed her face at the spring, had tucked her tumbled hair back under her hat, and, looking remarkably cool, came into the cabin.

"You can make coffee," Judith nodded her approval as she sipped at the black beverage, cooled a little by condensed milk. Lee was busied with a tin containing potted meat. "Now, have you got over your shock so that I can talk with you?"

He smiled at her across the little oilcloth-covered table, and answered lightly and with his old assurance that he guessed he had steadied his nerve. Hadn't he told her a cup of coffee would do wonders?

"Would it go to your head," began the girl abruptly, "if I were to tell you that I size you up as the best man I've got on my pay roll?"

"I'd try to keep both feet on the ground," he said gravely, though he wondered what was coming.

"I'll explain," she continued, her tone impersonally businesslike. "Next to you, I count on Doc Tripp; next to Tripp, on Carson. They are good men; they are trustworthy; they understand ranch conditions and they know what loyalty to the home-range means. But Tripp is just a veterinarian; simply that and nothing more. His horizon isn't very wide. Neither is Carson's."

"And mine?" he grinned at her. "Read me my horoscope, Miss Sanford."

"You have taken the trouble to be something more than just a horse foreman," she told him quietly. "I don't know what your advantages have been; if you haven't gone through high school, then at least you have been ambitious enough to get books, to read, to educate your self. You have developed further than Carson; you have broadened more than Tripp."

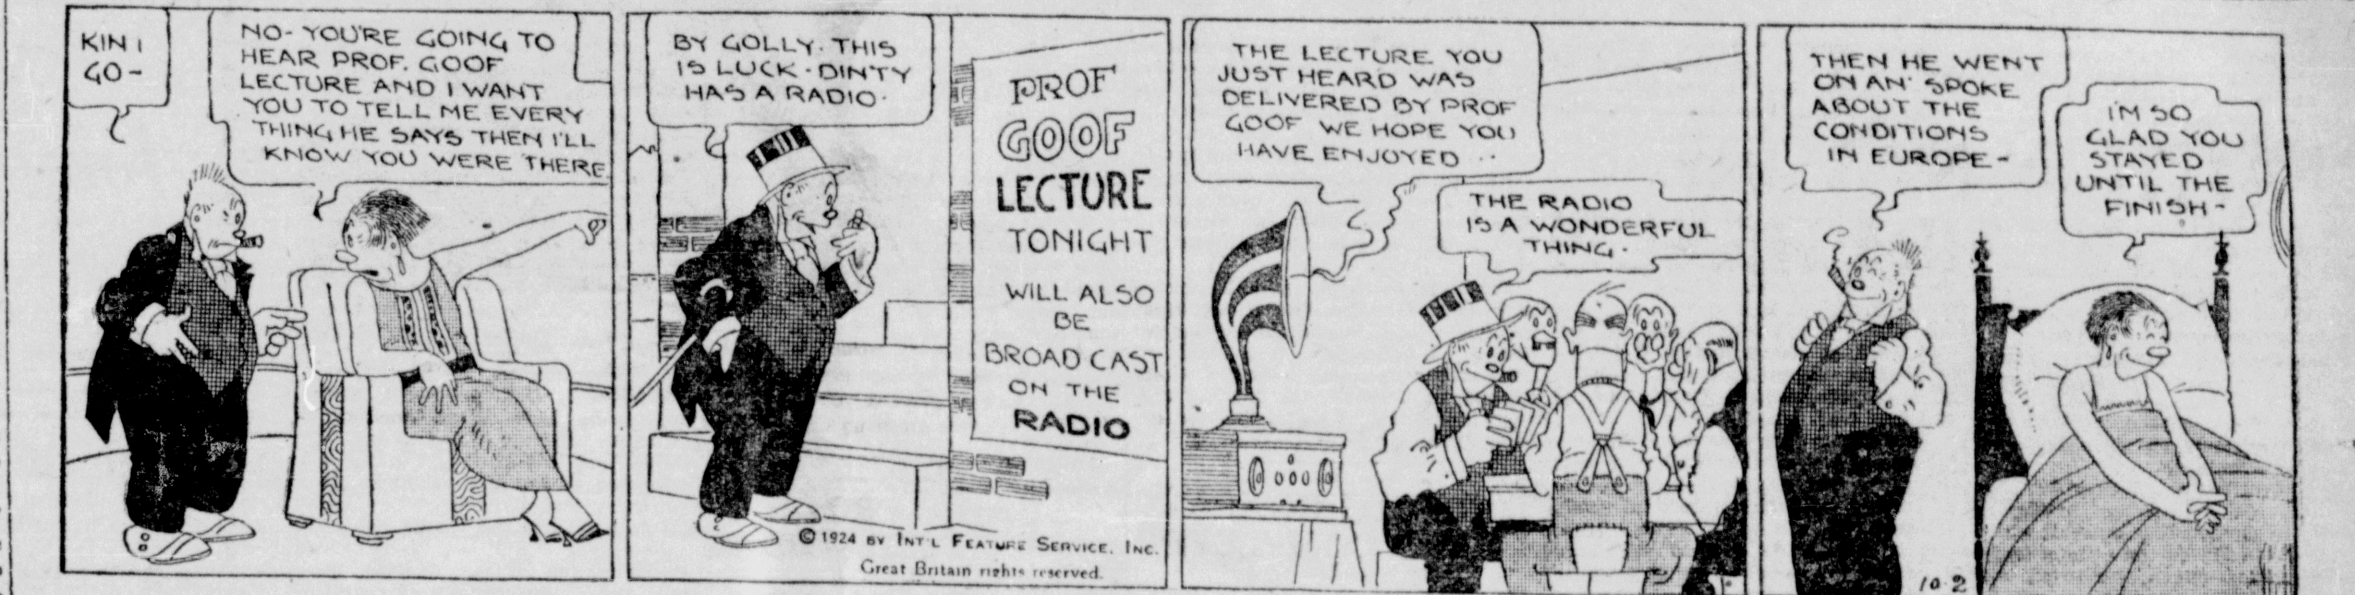

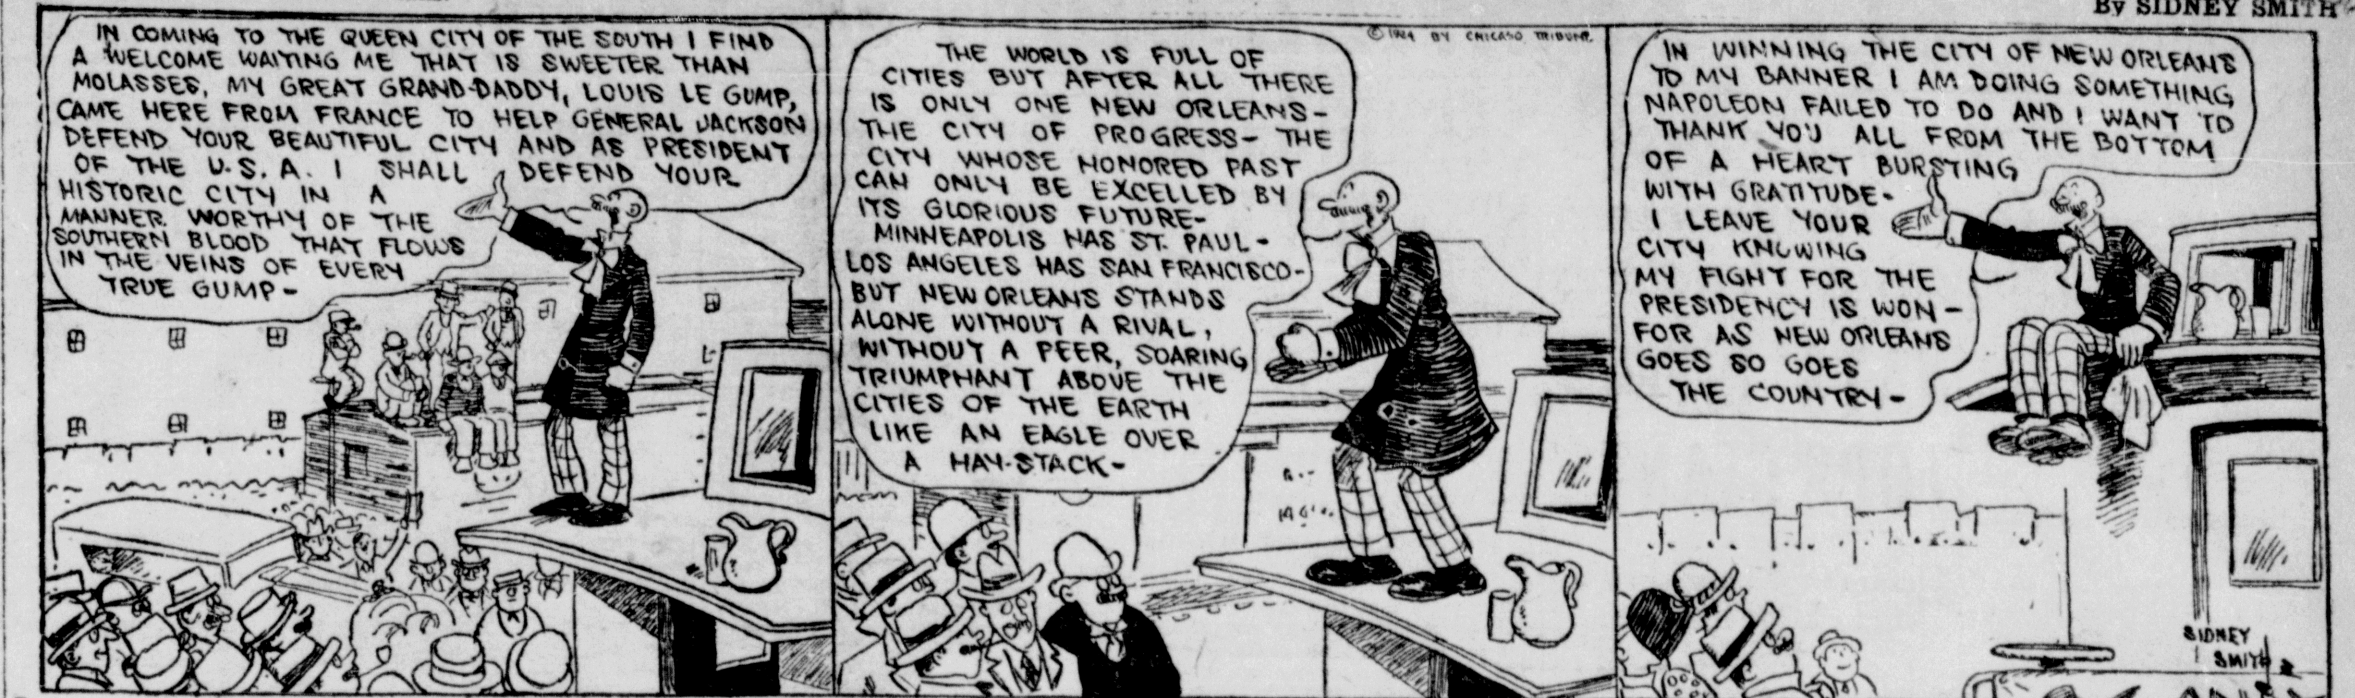

"Thanks," he offered dryly.

"Oh, I'm not seeking to intrude into your private affairs, Mr. Bud Lee!" she cried warmly at his tone. "I have no desire to do so, having no interest in them. First of all, I want one thing clear: You said when I first came that you'd stay a few days, long enough for me to get a man in your place. We have both been rather too busy to think of your leaving or my seeking a substitute. Now what? Do you want to go? Or do you want to stick?"

GREYS' ELEVEN WILL OPEN SEASON SUNDAY AT SALEM

Local Semi-Pro Grid Outfit Schedules Hard Assignment; Boone Directing Practices

Thirty Candidates Limber up Wednesday Night at City Park; Former Players Face Contests for Regular Berths.

The East Liverpool Greys, the city's representative outfit in the independent ranks, will tackle the Schaffer Billiards, of Salem, in their opening tussle of the season next Sunday afternoon at Centennial park, Salem.

Coach O. V. Boone, who is handling the Greys as well as the local high school griders this season, took charge of the semi-pro squad Wednesday evening in a practice drill at city park. Thirty candidates reported and put in three hours limbering up.

All the former backfield men will be back on the squad this season but face a stiff struggle for places, with a number of new candidates who are showing promise. The club expects a big turnout again Thursday night at city park and issues an invitation to all griders in the district who cover places on the squad to be there.

Coach Boone will again be in charge of drill work Thursday night, beginning at 6 o'clock. During the remainder of the season workout will be held regularly on Tuesday and Thursday evenings.

By defeating the Wellsville Webster Billiards, 6 to 0, last Sunday at Salem, the Quaker City combat which the Greys tackle on the coming weekend displayed punch, teamwork and defensive ability, showing as well the effects of good coaching.

Their prowess with the forward pass could hardly be questioned by fans after the latter had watched the Sametites toss half a dozen forwards in succession, with a receiver on the job every time, during a downpour of rain, with footing uncertain and the ball plastered with mud. Spencer, quarterback, is the team's speed merchant and he knows how to run the ends. The line is strong, despite the fact that it is not unusually heavy. Altogether, it is a big task that the locals have booked for their inaugural attempt of the campaign.

Driver Lacy, Hurt In Lisbon Race, Is Operated on

Charles Lacy, North Randolph race driver, who was injured in a race at Lisbon, Sept. 18, underwent an operation for the reduction of a fracture in his right leg at the St. John's hospital, Cleveland, Tuesday.

Lacy appeared to have escaped injuries following the smashup. He was to have driven in the Columbus grand circuit meeting this week, but was prevented because of the injury to his leg.

NATS' DEFENSE TOPS GIANTS'

McGraw May Have Slight Edge in Mound Corps.

By Davis J. Walsh.
NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Defensively, the writer esteems the Washington Senators over the New York Giants, taken as a unit, giving the Giants only a slight edge in pitching—something to which they may or may not be entitled. The Senators had an impressive staff in mid-season, but it seems to me that the keen edge of its efficiency has been dulled by the wear and tear of the late campaign.

The Giants, on the contrary, got better pitching late in the race than they did at any time before. Bentley, Neff, McQuillan and Barnes stepping out with natty performances. In the last week of the campaign it looked as though this quartet was ready to pitch championship ball any time the question was asked of it.

Washington won several of its late games by scores that indicated that the opposition was having no trouble in trifling with the Senatorial staff.

Johnson seemed to be firing, after staking himself to a great year, and it needed the excellent relief pitching of Marberry to reclaim games that seemed to have been lost by McGraw and Zachary. I think it is entirely possible that McGraw will get slightly more consistent pitching than Harris will.

Johnson, of course, will work in the opening game, the fourth and seventh, if any. Upon his ability to beat the Giants at least twice rests the hope of the Senators. If he doesn't the burden will fall upon McGraw and Zachary and the Giants are not particularly embarrassed by left handers.

As for Johnson, it is a fact, not fiction, that McGraw's club is rather partial to fast ball pitchers, although Johnson's fast ball may be something else again.

The possibility that Marberry may be rushed in from the bullpen in time to save any or all of the three mentioned is imminent. But withal it would appear that the Giant staff carries greater balance.

Whether Gowdy will be able to get as much out of his pitchers as Tuel figures to do, is another matter. Tuel not only is a better catcher than any man the Giants can muster, but he is likely to give his pitchers a bit more assistance. That is one defensive sector that favors the Senators.

Another is the infield, although the writer expects many to take violent issue with him on that point.

But, outside of the batteries, what are the important defensive sectors? Go to the head of the class, Joseph, second base and centerfield. What is the best keystone combination in the game today? Correct again, Harris and Peckinpaugh, of the Senators. They have proved it by making more double plays than any other combination on the big time.

Frisch and Jackson are fine ball players but they don't work together like Harris and Peckinpaugh. In fact, Frisch, relieved of the presence of the sprightly, agile Bancroft on the left side of the bag, has not played with his usual aplomb this season. It is said that the burden of leading his team in the field has weighed upon him.

At first base, I would give Judge a slight defensive edge on Kelly, although the latter is a great mark for infielders to shoot at. He isn't as sure as Judge on ground balls, however, and I doubt if he covers the same amount of ground, especially to his right. At third base, Bluege is a stand-off with either Lindstrom or Groh, particularly if the latter's trick knee is not what it should be.

Centerfield? Either McNeely or Leibold are better men than Kelly or Wilson of the Giants, giving away only to Ross Young, in case McGraw might decide to move the latter over (now is not as good a left fielder as are Wilson or McNeely; it may be a shade under Young in right, but that is problematical).

Comparison, in general, is strongly pro-Washington. Yet I think the Giants will win. I like their pitching and never for a moment do I forget that they will have McGraw pulling the strings. The breaks will play a tremendous part in the ultimate outcome and McGraw is inclined to make his own.

Prices in Spain have risen so rapidly that the government has authorized a further increase in the price of bread and is establishing surveillance over stocks of flour and wheat in order to prevent speculation.

SEBRING GAME NEXT FOR HIGH

First Game Off Home Lot is Carded Saturday.

After having played their first two games on the home lot, East Liverpool high school griders will face a change in program on Saturday afternoon when they will tackle the strong Sebring scholastic eleven on the Sebring gridiron.

The team that will oppose the Blue and White in Saturday's engagement, has always borne an athletic reputation, and that, even, has been ascending rather than otherwise, during recent years.

Scholastic foes on the Sebring schedule for 1924 took notice last Saturday when the little school played Coach Galt's Alliance high school eleven to a standstill, coming out with a tie and all kinds of glory.

The Alliance squad may or may not have been as strong as in former years, but it is a fact that for a number of years the Stark county combine has always been a factor to reckon with in scholastic athletic circles.

Practice sessions will be under way Thursday and Friday nights at Patterson field. Coach Boone has reported no casualties as a result of last Saturday's game with the Alumni, and, as a result, the regular lineup will probably be sent into the Sebring contest.

TORONTO BOXING CARD COMPLETED

Toronto American Legion boxing promoters Thursday announced the complete card for their fight show on Tuesday evening, October 9.

The semi-finalists are Young Sweeney, of Mingo Junction, 128 pounds, and Pete Maris, of Niles, 147 pounds. The preliminary will bring together Gordon Hinkle, of Toronto, 160 pounds, and Kid Shatak, of Toronto, 160 pounds. Johnny Whales and George Smith, Toronto boys, will box the curtain raiser, at 137 pounds.

Ants' Pitched Battle Reported Staged at Regent's Park Zoo

LONDON.—Idealists will probably be shocked to learn that the war fever still clutches modern London.

Great excitement has been caused by a war between rival colonies of ants at the Regent's Park Zoo. Newspapers have carried daily dispatches from the front, written in the best war style. Crowds have gathered to see the battle progressing day by day, and the picture papers have made magnificent photographs of the daily engagement.

The newspapers have announced that the authorities prepared a white sand battlefield, with concentrated lights to aid the war between the two armies of ants.

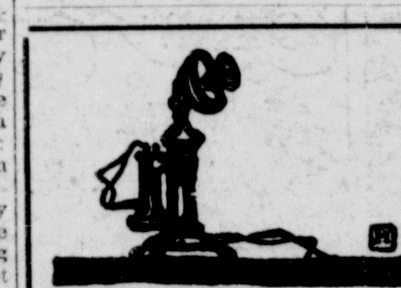

The publicity given to this "war" has not been without protest, and some newspapers have printed violent criticism from ex-soldiers against such methods of making "an English holiday."

Hart, of Philadelphia, outpointed Cline Tait, Canada, ten rounds.

At Baltimore—Joe Dundee of Baltimore defeated Red-Cap Wilson of New York, in 12 rounds; Vince Dundee of Baltimore defeated Jack Gallagher of Philadelphia.

Barrett Takes Beating
PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 2.—A terrific fight to the jaw from Mickey Walker in the Sixth round of their bout here last night also ended one of the fiercest ring battles seen in the Quaker city for years.

Barrett met his master, but acknowledged it only after taking a severe beating that started right in the opening round when he went down six times running, the bell saving him on one occasion. Three times Mickey's punches knocked him from his under-pinning and three times he sagged to the canvas from sheer weakness. Despite Barrett's famed punch, Walker showed himself a real champion by slugging toe to toe with his opponent all through the battle.

COSHOCTON, O.—Coshocton has $40,000 available to operate schools that last year cost $200,000 to run, according to Mrs. W. B. Miller, clerk of the board of education. The teaching force has been cut and several other economies effected.

TIGERS CARD VALLEY STARS

Expect Hot Struggle With Turtle Creek Squad.

TORONTO, Oct. 2.—The Tigers, fresh from their 20 to 6 defeat Sunday of the Elks of Ambridge, Pa., are preparing for a mammoth crowd this coming week-end when they tackle the Valley All Stars of Turtle Creek, Pa.

Dr. Den Duffy, who refereed the Ambridge game, will handle the contest, with "Bum" Francy, umpire. The Toronto team, according to present plans of Manager Fred Tarr and Coach Radman, will start Sunday with about the same lineup as last week. Mundy of East Liverpool, by his superb playing and tackling last Sunday, was assured of a steady berth at right end.

Kidder of Newell will go back at right tackle.

Manager Tarr believes he has made a great find in two new men whom he has just imported from Niles, O., where they have been playing with the professionals of that city. They are McRoberts, big 215 pound center, and Kyle, hefty guard. Both will start the game against the Valleys.

Thurston vs. Kaufman.

CHICAGO, Oct. 2.—Hollis Thurston, of the Pale Hose, and Tony Kaufman, were scheduled to take the mound here this afternoon in the second game of the city series between the Cubs and White Sox. The game will be played at the White Sox park. More than 15,000 saw the Sox lose the opener ten to seven at Cubs' park yesterday. The game netted the play receipts $7,296.59, their share of the gross receipts of $14,297.04.

Industrial League Teams Planning Annual Banquet

Climaxing another successful Y. M. C. A. industrial baseball league season, the fourth annual banquet of the circuit will be held on Thursday night, October 9, in the "Y" dining rooms, officials of the organization announced on Thursday.

The Hall China club, which Manager Sprague piloted from the second division into the season's championship, will be presented with two trophies at the coming banquet.

A new Y. M. C. A. industrial department cup, and a Spalding's cup will be the prizes which will be awarded to the champions. The Y. M. C. A. cup last year went permanently into the possession of the McLean Tires as a result of their second championship. The present cup will stay with Halls if they again take the front in next year's race.

William T. McNutt, former president of the circuit, will be chairman and toastmaster at the banquet. Mr. McNutt and Lee C. Cooper will direct arrangements for the affair.

The final meeting of officials of the league will be held on next Tuesday evening, October 7, to wind up details in connection with banquet plans.

It is imperative, according to announcement today, that each team manager file with W. J. Scott, industrial secretary a complete list of his players who will attend the banquet in order that reservations may be made.

Berlenbach Wins.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Oct. 2.—Paul Berlenbach, knockout king, hammered Johnny Gill, York, Pa., lightweight, all about the ring in ten rounds at Boyle's Thirty Acres last night, but failed to put him down for keeps, although Gill hit the canvas six times. In another feature bout, Jack Britton, veteran of 300 ring battles, was far too clever for Knockout Phil Kaplan. Billy Kennedy, New Orleans, featherweight star, had the better of an eight round tussle with Pete Mack of Jersey City.

Austria has little unemployment.

THOMAS SQUAD BOOKS OPENER

East End Eleven Will Clash With Chester Gridders.

The Thomas Independent football squad, recently organized principally from East End players, are preparing for their opening clash of the season, which will be staged on Saturday afternoon at Columbia park, with the Chester mill team furnishing opposition.

The Independents will attempt a new wrinkle in football scheduling Saturday with the carding of a double-header.

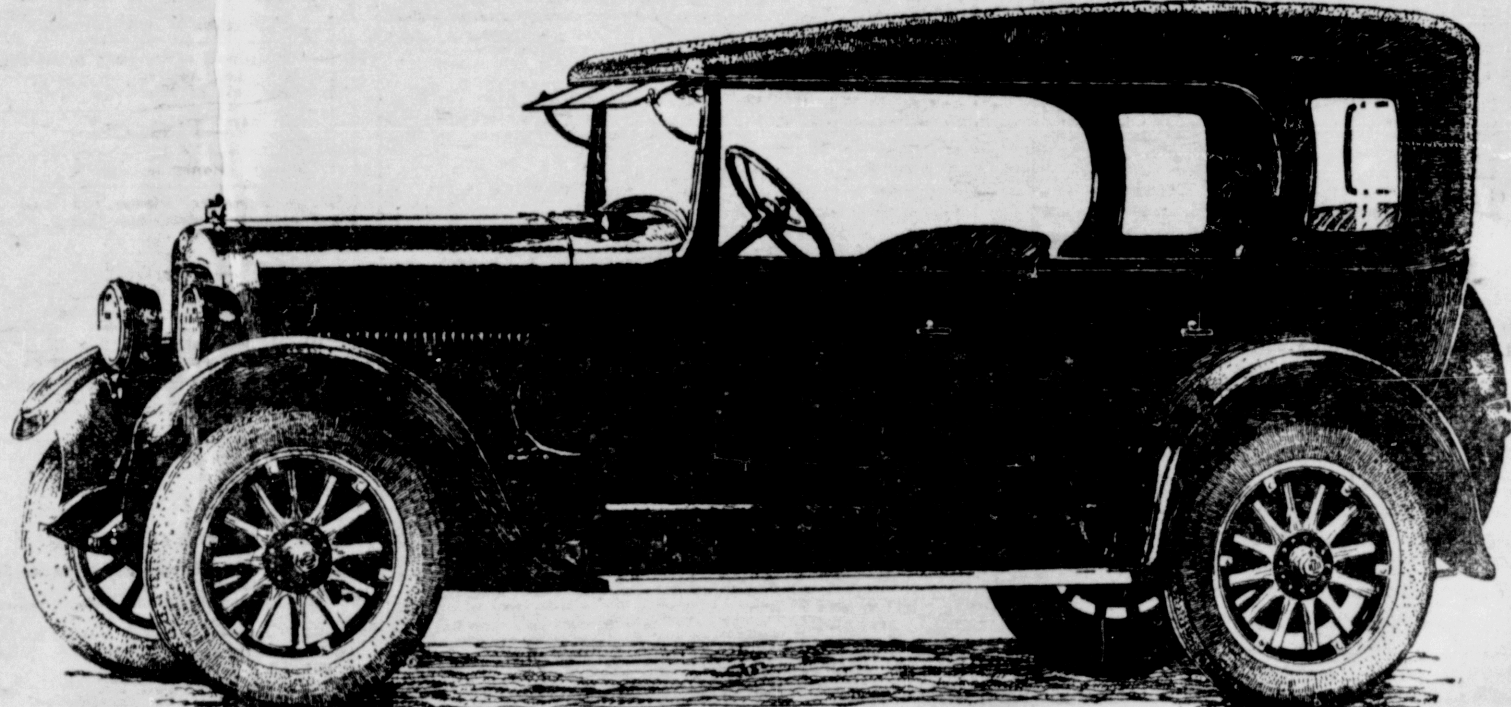

As a preliminary to the main event the St. George Street team will play the Northside eleven, beginning at 1:30 o'clock. The big game will start at 3 o'clock.

A great deal of interest is being shown by local fans in the Thomas eleven and as a result a large attendance is expected at the opener.

Giants Head Toward Capital.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—John McGraw and his New York Giants prepared today for their invasion of Washington, where they clash with Bucky Harris' Senators Saturday in the first game of the world's series.

The Giants were scheduled to board the Congressional Limited at the Pennsylvania station at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon. Captain Frank Frisch and Heinie Groh, star third baseman, were listed to go with the team. Frisch, according to McGraw, is a certain starter in the first game, but the condition of Groh's trick knee continues to give McGraw cause for anxiety.

DUPLIX — a new name

A closed and open car combined—the advantages of both at an open car price!

ONE minute the DUPLIX is a comfortable, weather-tight closed car—deeply cushioned and richly appointed. In less than thirty seconds it becomes a delightful open car, with all the unhindered freedom every motorist likes and enjoys. Its double utility satisfied a most urgent need—it is as revolutionary as the self-starter and electric lights.

And the price is the same as that of the open car—with advantages in finish, fittings, room and comfort no open car could ever give!

Framed and shaped in steel, the upper part of the Duplex Body is built integrally with the lower part—it functions perfectly with the lower part—it is permanently beautiful.

But even without the "double-value" of the Duplex Body the new Standard Six would still be the same great Studebaker success. For its introduction marks the beginning of an era in the automobile industry when fine cars of real quality, plenty of room and comfort, impressive appearance, splendid power and performance may be had at a price the average buyer can afford to pay.

Surpassing mechanical superiority is obvious in every mile you drive it. Power, smoothness, silence you expect in any good six-cylinder car; but in this great car your expectations will be exceeded. You cannot anticipate such performance-perfection in any car even within hundreds of dollars of the new Studebaker Standard Six price.

The proof is easy to establish—drive it yourself, try it out on your favorite hill, test its speed on the straight-away. Sense what "ease of operation" really means in terms of effortless steering, velvety clutch action, easy gear shifting and instant brake application.

Experience what real comfort means in plenty of room, soft deep cushions; genuine balloon tires; long, supple springs.

The new Standard Six will tell you a story as it has never been told before by any other car at the Standard Six price.

GREYS' ELEVEN WILL OPEN SEASON SUNDAY AT SALEM

Local Semi-Pro Grid Outfit Schedules Hard Assignment; Boone Directing Practices

Thirty Candidates Limber up Wednesday Night at City Park; Former Players Face Contests for Regular Berths.

The East Liverpool Greys, the city's representative outfit in the independent ranks, will tackle the Schaffer Billiards, of Salem, in their opening tussle of the season next Sunday afternoon at Centennial park, Salem.

Coach O. V. Boone, who is handling the Greys as well as the local high school griders this season, took charge of the semi-pro squad Wednesday evening in a practice drill at city park. Thirty candidates reported and put in three hours limbering up.

All the former backfield men will be back on the squad this season but face a stiff struggle for places, with a number of new candidates who are showing promise. The club expects a big turnout again Thursday night at city park and issues an invitation to all griders in the district who cover places on the squad to be there.

Coach Boone will again be in charge of drill work Thursday night, beginning at 6 o'clock. During the remainder of the season workout will be held regularly on Tuesday and Thursday evenings.

By defeating the Wellsville Webster Billiards, 6 to 0, last Sunday at Salem, the Quaker City combat which the Greys tackle on the coming week-end displayed punch, teamwork and defensive ability, showing as well the effects of good coaching.

Their prowess with the forward pass could hardly be questioned by fans after the latter had watched the Samettes toss half a dozen forwards in succession, with a receiver on the job every time, during a downpour of rain, with footing uncertain and the ball plastered with mud. Spencer, quarter, is the team's speed merchant, and he knows how to run the ends. The line is strong, despite the fact that it is not unusually heavy. Altogether, it is a big task that the locals have booked for their inaugural attempt of the campaign.

NATS' DEFENSE TOPS GIANTS'

McGraw May Have Slight Edge in Mound Corps.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Defensively, the writer esteems the Washington Senators over the New York Giants, taken as a unit, giving the Giants only a slight edge in pitching—something to which they may or may not be entitled. The Senators had an impressive staff in mid-season, but it seems to me that the keen edge of its efficiency has been dulled by the wear and tear of the late campaign.

The Giants, on the contrary, got better pitching late in the race than they did at any time before. Bentley, Neff, McQuillan and Barnes stepping out with nifty performances. In the last week of the campaign it looked as though this quartet was ready to pitch championship ball any time the question was asked of it.

Washington won several of its late games by scores that indicated that the opposition was having no trouble in trifling with the Senatorial staff. Johnson seemed to be tiring, after staking himself to a great year, and it needed the excellent relief pitching of Marberry to reclaim games that seemed to have been lost by McGraw and Zachary. I think it is entirely possible that McGraw will get slightly more consistent pitching than Harris will.

Johnson, of course, will work in the opening game, the fourth and seventh, if any. Upon his ability to beat the Giants at least twice rests the hope of the Senators. If he doesn't the burden will fall upon McGraw and Zachary and the Giants are not particularly embarrassed by left handers. As for Johnson, it is a fact, not fiction, that McGraw's club is rather partial to fast ball pitchers, although Johnson's fast ball may be something else again.

The possibility that Marberry may be rushed in from the bullpen in time to save any or all of the three mentioned is imminent. But withal it would appear that the Giant staff carries greater balance.

Whether Gowdy will be able to get as much out of his pitchers as Russell figures to do, is another matter. Russell not only is a better catcher than any man the Giants can muster, but he is likely to give his pitchers a bit more assistance. That is one defensive factor that favors the Senators.

Another is the infield, although the writer expects many to take violent issue with him on that point.

But, outside of the batteries, what are the important defensive factors? Go to the head of the class, Joseph, second base and centerfield. What is the best keystone combination in the game today? Correct again, Harris and Peckinpaugh, of the Senators. They have proved it by making more double plays than any other combination on the big time.

Frisch and Jackson are fine ball players but they don't work together like Harris and Peckinpaugh. In fact, Frisch, relieved of the presence of the sprightly, agile Bancroft on the left side of the bag, has not played with his usual aplomb this season. It is said that the burden of leading his team in the field has weighed upon him.

At first base, I would give Judge a slight defensive edge on Kelly, although the latter is a great mark for infielders to shoot at. He isn't as sure as Judge on ground balls, however, and I doubt if he covers the same amount of ground, especially to his right. At third base, Bluege is a stand-out with either Lindstrom or Groh, particularly if the latter's trick knee is not what it should be.

Centerfield? Either McNeely or Leibold are better men than Kelly or Wilson of the Giants, giving away only to Ross Young, in case McGraw might decide to move the latter over Gossin is not as good a left fielder as is Wilson or McNeely. Rice may be a shade under Young in right, but that is problematical.

Comparison, in general, is strongly pro-Washington. Yet I think the Giants will win, I like their pitching and never for a moment do I forget that they will have McGraw pulling the strings. The breaks will play a tremendous part in the ultimate outcome and McGraw is inclined to make his own.

SEBRING GAME NEXT FOR HIGH

First Game Off Home Lot is Carded Saturday.

After having played their first two games on the home lot, East Liverpool high school griders will face a change in program on Saturday afternoon when they will tackle the strong Sebring scholastic eleven on the Sebring gridiron.

The team that will oppose the Blue and White in Saturday's engagement, has always borne an athletic reputation, and that, even, has been ascending rather than otherwise, during recent years.

Scholastic foes on the Sebring schedule for 1924 took notice last Saturday when the little school played Coach Gelta's Alliance high school eleven to a standstill, coming out with a tie and all kinds of glory.

The Alliance squad may or may not have been as strong as in former years, but it is a fact that for a number of years the Stark county combine has always been a factor to reckon with in scholastic athletic circles.

Practice sessions will be under way Thursday and Friday nights at Patterson field. Coach Boone has reported no casualties as a result of last Saturday's game with the Alliance, and, as a result, the regular line-up will probably be sent into the Sebring contest.

Gets $50 Debt Owed
Him for Fifty Years
On Trade for Horse

SYRACUSE, N. Y.—A check for $50 that was due him on a horse trade fifty years ago has been received by John Wesley Tuley, of Tully.

The deal specified that if a mare, which was slightly lame, should recover, the purchaser was to send Tuley an additional $50.

The check was received from John D. Tompkins, of Valatie, purchaser of the animal, now a prosperous manufacturer, who states that the mare recovered.

RHEUMATISM

A Remarkable
Home Treatment
Given by One Who Had It.

In the year of 1893, I was attacked by Muscular and Sub-acute Rheumatism. I suffered as only those who are thus afflicted know, for over three years. I tried remedy after remedy, but such relief as I obtained was only temporary. Finally, I found a treatment that cured me completely, and such a pitiful condition has never returned. I have given it to a number who were terribly afflicted, even bed-ridden, some of them seventy to eighty years old, and the results were the same as in my own case.

I want every sufferer from any form of muscular and sub-acute (swelling at the joints) rheumatism, to try the great value of my improved "Home Treatment" for its remarkable healing power. Don't send a cent; simply mail your name and address and I will send it free to try. After you have used it and it has proven itself to be that long-looked-for means of getting rid of such forms of rheumatism, you may send the price of it, one dollar, but understand, I do not want your money unless you are perfectly satisfied to send it. Isn't that fair? Why suffer any longer when relief is thus offered you free? Don't delay. Write today.

Answers to Questions

By FREDERICK J. HASKIN.

Q. Why are we thirsty after eating much salt or sugar? W. W. McC.

A. The reaction of thirst comes from taking into the system more salt or sugar than is needed. This excess arrests the secretions of the mucous membrane and the resulting dryness is relieved by water which dilutes and carries off the excess salt and sugar.

Q. How are lead pencils made? M. P. R.

A. To make the wooden tube in which the lead is encased, the manufacturer cuts out a board about seven inches long, the width of six pencils, and as thick as half a pencil in diameter. With a machine he then shapes it into six semi-rounded or semi-hexagonal sections, and grooves one side to hold the lead. When the lead is inserted, the halves are glued together. The "lead" in a pencil is composed of graphite.

A. ## Says His Prescription

Has Powerful Influence

Over Rheumatism

Mr. James H. Allen, of 26 Forbes street, Rochester, New York, suffered for years with rheumatism. Many times this terrible disease left him helpless and unable to work.

He finally decided, after years of ceaseless study, that no one can be free from rheumatism until the accumulated impurities, commonly called uric acid deposits, were dissolved in the joints and muscles and expelled from the body.

With this idea in mind he consulted physicians, made experiments and finally compounded a prescription that quickly and completely banished every sign and symptom of rheumatism from his system.

He freely gave his discovery, which he called Allenru, to others who took it, with what might be called marvelous success. After years of urging he decided to let sufferers everywhere know about his discovery through the newspapers. He has therefore instructed druggists everywhere to dispense Allenru with the understanding that if the first pint bottle does not show the way to complete recovery he will gladly return your money without comment.

Jesse D. Holloway, Carnahan's Pharmacy are my appointed agents in your city. If you live out of town I'll gladly send you free particulars.

Because the inhabitants of Pinon, in France's devastated regions, could not agree on how to rebuild the place as a model village, the project has been abandoned and the $24,000 donated for the purpose will be used for a town hall and a school.

Has Powerful Influence

Over Rheumatism

Mr. James H. Allen, of 26 Forbes street, Rochester, New York, suffered for years with rheumatism. Many times this terrible disease left him helpless and unable to work.

He finally decided, after years of ceaseless study, that no one can be free from rheumatism until the accumulated impurities, commonly called uric acid deposits, were dissolved in the joints and muscles and expelled from the body.

With this idea in mind he consulted physicians, made experiments and finally compounded a prescription that quickly and completely banished every sign and symptom of rheumatism from his system.

He freely gave his discovery, which he called Allenru, to others who took it, with what might be called marvelous success. After years of urging he decided to let sufferers everywhere know about his discovery through the newspapers. He has therefore instructed druggists everywhere to dispense Allenru with the understanding that if the first pint bottle does not show the way to complete recovery he will gladly return your money without comment.

Q. Should children of a given age eat a fixed amount of food? O. H.

A. Child specialists inform us that between the ages of four and 12 years a very active child requires double the total calories of a very quiet child, and a moderately active child requires one-third more calories than the quiet child. Because of the demands incident to rapid growth, all children require highly nourishing food.
